

Around The Corner From Anywhere

DRINK Coca-Cola

For the Proprietor of
HONGKONG TELEGRAPH
For and on behalf of
SOUTH CHINA MORNING POST, LTD.
— CHINESE AND ENGLISH —

The Hongkong Telegraph

Today's Weather: Moderate E or NE winds, Fair.
Non Observations: Barometer—present, 1010.0 mbs.
20.00 in. Temperature, 81.3 deg. F. Dew point, 71 deg. F. Relative humidity, 70 %. Wind direction, SE by E. Wind force, 4 knots.
Low water: 2 ft 2 in at 4.05 p.m. High water: 6 ft 9 in at 10 p.m.

Dine
At the

P. G.

For Reservations

Tel: 27880

VOL. V NO. 241

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1950.

Price 20 Cents

Bao Dai Returning To Saigon

Prime Minister's Statement

Saigon, Oct. 10.
Ex-Emperor Bao Dai, head of the Vietnam State, would return to Indo-China "within a few days," said the Vietnamese Prime Minister, Tran Van Huu today.

The Premier said that the Vietnamese battalion sent to help defend France at the beginning of World War II was now asking to be reformed and returned to Vietnam to fight against the Communists.

Asked by reporters what would be the political consequences of the Vietnam military situation in Tonkin, he said he believed that the situation would have the effect of speeding formation of the Vietnamese Army.

He had several times asked for this during his stay in France.

Money and supply questions had delayed the army's formation, he added.

The Vietnamese army now comprises 12 battalions, nine of which have been supplied with motorized equipment under the United States military aid programme, he projected strength is 25 battalions.

The Premier said that his presence with Bao Dai in France had helped the Vietnam delegation attending the Pan conference in the French presence.

The conference between France and the Indo-Chinese associated states of Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, is working out the joint administration of the states' common interests.

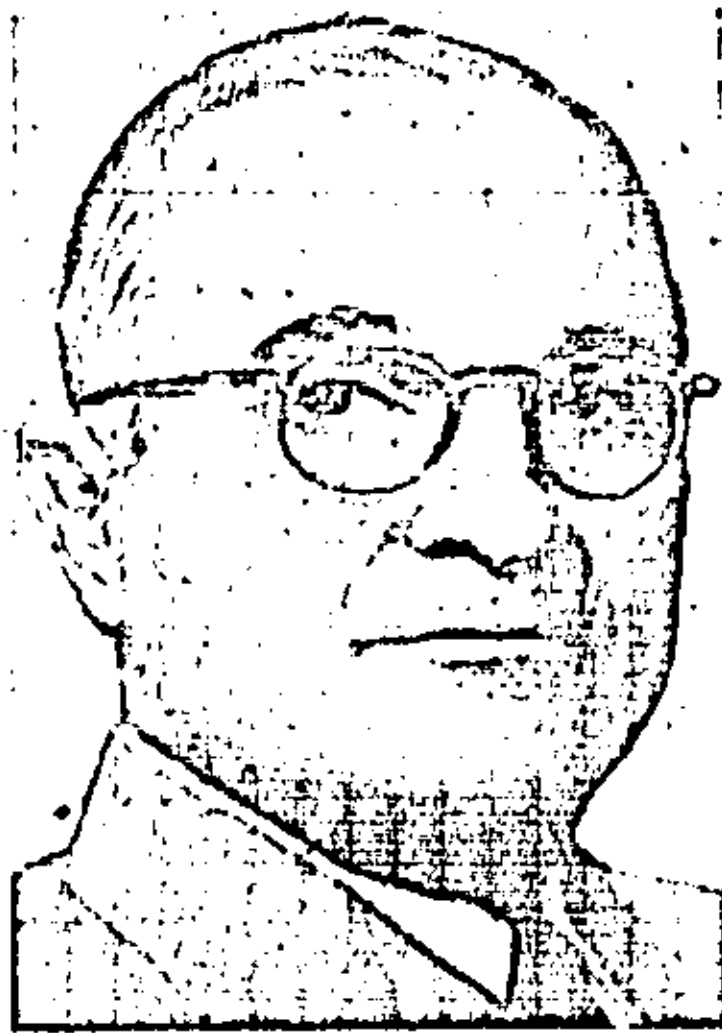

Tran Van Huu expected the conference to last another month.

It was not the fault of attending delegations that the inter-state conference had been delayed, he added.

The delegations wanted serious results and the Vietnamese had defended "with courtesy and flexibility" their intention to obtain all the power they believed they should have.

Reuter.

Truman & MacArthur To Meet Secretly In Pacific

PRES. TRUMAN

PRESIDENT FLYING TO HAWAII TOMORROW

Bradley, Harriman Attending

Washington, Oct. 10.

President Truman announced today that he will meet General Douglas MacArthur in the Pacific this week-end to discuss "the final phase of United Nations action in Korea."

Mr Truman said in a statement that he would also discuss with General MacArthur "other matters within his responsibility."

The President did not say where exactly he would meet the United Nations Commander but it was presumed to be somewhere west of Hawaii.

Accompanying the President to the meeting will be General Omar Bradley, Chairman of the American Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Mr Averell Harriman, Special Assistant to the President on foreign affairs.

He will also have with him Dr Philip G. Jessup, Ambassador-at-Large and Mr Dean Rusk, Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs.

The Secretary of the Army, Mr Frank Pace, may also make the trip.

General MacArthur, who is 70, has not been home to America for 13 years.

In August, 1949, while serving in Tokyo, he declined an invitation to return to Washington to give Congress a personal report on the Far Eastern situation. He declared, "I can best serve the United States by remaining at my post."

Mr Truman, in his statement, said that in the final phase of the United Nations action General MacArthur's command "will be working closely with the United Nations Commission which has just been created by the General Assembly and given heavy responsibilities for the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic Korea."

"We must proceed rapidly with our part in the organization of the United Nations' relief and reconstruction programme in order to give the Korean people a chance to live in peace," the President added.

President Truman's statement announcing that he intends to meet with General MacArthur, said:

"When I see him I shall express to him the appreciation and gratitude of the people and Government of the United States for the great service which he is rendering world peace."

"He is carrying on his mission with the imagination, courage and effectiveness which have marked his entire service as one of our greatest military leaders."

"I shall discuss with him the final phase of United Nations action in Korea. In this phase, the United Nations Command will be working closely with the United Nations Commission which has just been created by the General Assembly and given heavy responsibilities for the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic Korea."

"We must proceed rapidly with our part in the organization of the United Nations' relief and reconstruction programme in order to give the Korean people a chance to live in peace."

HEAVY TASK
The successful accomplishment of this peaceful mission of reconstruction can serve as a pattern for other efforts to improve the lot of people all over the world. The task of reconstruction in Korea will be a heavy one and will require a major effort by the United Nations—the United States will

(Continued on Page 5 Column 4)

GEN. MACARTHUR

Britons Perturbed By Govt's Latest Political Purge

From Our Own Correspondent

London, Oct. 10.

What shall we do with the Communists in Britain? Controversy over this question has broken out afresh with the revelation of plans to purge municipal staffs working on security measures.

The extension of the Whitehall purge to local authorities provides for police investigation of the private lives of all top officials concerned with defence in Britain's chief cities.

This news comes as a shock to many quarters to non-Communists as much as to Communist sympathisers. Britons are scared today that the proposals will launch the country into a terror reign of the "Snooper" and the "Nark."

The Conservative "Evening Standard," in an editorial tonight, takes up the cudgels on behalf of those who think the purge is going too far. The paper admits the Government's right to remove Communists and fellow travellers from positions affecting the defence of the realm but "the purge must not extend further."

THREAT TO INNOCENT
How, asks the Standard, are the innocent to be protected? How is a man who thoughtlessly signed a "peace" petition because he believed in peace to be saved from the consequences of his ignorance about the uses to which an signature might be put?

The first test of the public reaction to the proposals will be forthcoming on Thursday when a committee of the London County Council meets to consider plans for the new defence arrangements.

Two proposals are to come before the Committee—one official and one from the LCC Staff Association. The official proposal is that a list of all officials whose jobs may bring them in touch with defence plans should be handed to the police for the latter to investigate the private associations of all those listed.

The Staff Association propose that the jobs affected—not the names of individuals—be listed and that Communists or sympathisers be allowed to transfer to other LCC departments. Police investigations, the Staff Association contends, should be limited to the confirmation of unsatisfactory conduct.

LESS PROTECTION
The "Evening Standard" complains that the official proposals give "even less protection to accused officials than, in practice, has been adopted in Whitehall." It is pointed out of an independent check on facts by an advisory committee—a safeguard conceded by Government after the outcry in regard to the proposed Whitehall purge measures.

Communists who hold civil liberties in such utter contempt except when it suits their books to abuse such liberties, says the "Standard," can make no complaint against the purge. Not so the "ordinary citizen who has been trained in the ancient and honourable belief that no man can be judged guilty until he has been proved in fair trial to be guilty. He has the right to demand that Britain shall not become a state where snoopers and marks enjoy the opportunities of private revenge, where justice can be administered in secret on the untested evidence of anonymous witnesses."

Guerrillas Active
Singapore, Oct. 10.
Guerrillas killed three mahouts and an elephant in an ambush in Perak State yesterday.

They killed two constables and wounded another in Selangor.

One terrorist was wounded.

Reuter.

Sharp Fighting North Of 38th Commonwealth Troops Start A New Thrust South Of Pyongyang

Tokyo, Oct. 10.

United Nations tanks and infantry today burst out on either side of North Korean troops manning defences just north of the 38th Parallel.

The British Commonwealth Brigade led a westward thrust across the Yesong River towards the west coast port of Haeju, 90 miles south of Pyongyang, the northern capital.

Troops of the American First Cavalry Division, pushing directly towards Pyongyang from Kaesong, today fought their way to about four miles north of the 38th Parallel.

The determined Northerners, dug in on hills above the road, poured down concentrated mortar, machine-gun and rifle fire. In the words of one wounded American, "These guys only stop fighting when they're dead."

Not more than 150 had surrendered since General MacArthur threw American and British forces against the 38th Parallel defences 48 hours ago.

Prisoners said that the Communists were concentrating around Kumsong, 15 miles north of the Parallel on the main Kaesong-Pyongyang highway.

AMERICAN CASUALTIES
Reports from United Nations pilots indicated that the Communists might be pulling men back from defences just north of the Parallel for a strong stand nearer Pyongyang.

American casualties in the drive along the Pyongyang road were reported to be fairly heavy, but most wounds were minor, according to frontline reports.

Communist resistance in Wonsan crumbled today in the face of a three-pronged South Korean infantry assault supported by artillery and warplanes.

The defenders withdrew to hills north-west and west of the city.

Reuter's correspondent John Colless, who entered Wonsan with the South Koreans, reported that Brigadier General Kim Chung-kop, Commander-in-Chief of the Southern First Corps, announced this afternoon that the Third Division and the Capital Division entered the port simultaneously at 10 a.m. local time and "secured it."

But as he spoke Communist shells were falling from earlier Communist artillery fire. Northern riflemen were sniping at troops in the streets and South Korean mortar and machine-gun fire was raising clouds of smoke and dust from a hill near the railway station.

Eighth Army headquarters sources said tonight that the North Koreans, bitterly contesting every inch of the First

Reuter.

Ultimatum Rejected

Tokyo, Oct. 11.

The North Korean Premier, Kim Il Sung, today rejected Gen. MacArthur's surrender demand and ordered the Communist forces to "fight to the last."

A radio broadcast monitored in Tokyo did not specifically refer to General MacArthur's two surrender ultimatums.

Pyongyang radio broadcast at 7.30 a.m. (Tokyo time) today Kim's special message to the entire People's Army, partisans and people.

He said, "The aggressive American forces have infiltrated to the 38th parallel. Our fatherland is facing a grave crisis. However, we should learn from the example of the October Revolution of the Soviets. The People's Army and partisans must fight to the day of victory by eliminating all difficulties."

It is desired that further strenuous efforts be made to restore destroyed railways and communications, produce more arms and ammunition and send more goods and food to the fronts and rear lines.—United Press.

XMAS CHEER

for Friends
At Home

OUR HOME TRADE ORGANIZATION HAS A SPLENDID SELECTION OF ASSORTED CASES FOR DELIVERY AT XMAS.

Special catalogue obtainable from
CALDBECK MACGREGOR & CO., LTD.,
WINE & SPIRIT MERCHANTS
2 Chater Road Telephone 20075

EDITORIAL

Promising Proposals

THE American plan, as presented by Mr John Foster Dulles, to empower the General Assembly of the United Nations to take over the functions of the Security Council in suppressing aggression by military force in case the Council is unable to act is the most sweeping and also the most promising proposal yet made to give the United Nations genuine authority. If carried through, this programme would provide the answer to many of the criticisms levelled against the world organisation. It would largely solve the problem of the veto, without either abolishing the veto itself, or, as proposed by some, driving the Soviet bloc from the United Nations. And it would do this wholly within the letter and spirit of the Charter, without waiting for that revision which appears to be impossible under the present circumstances. As originally conceived, the General Assembly was to be the parliamentary body of the United Nations and the Security Council its executive, especially in all matters pertaining to the maintenance of international peace and security. But there are many reserve powers in the Charter which the Assembly can invoke to fulfill the Charter's purposes if the executive breaks down, and the frequent paralysis of the Council has already compelled the Assembly to take action that goes beyond its merely parliamentary powers. The American programme would merely spell out just what power of action the Assembly really has, and how it can best employ these powers in an emergency. The basic provision under which the Assembly can act is Article 10, which says that "the Assembly may discuss any questions or matters within the scope of the present Charter or relating to the powers and functions of any organs provided in the present Charter  and may make recommendations to the members of the United Nations or to the Security Council, or both, on any such questions, or matters." This obviously includes questions involving aggression and its suppression, and the powers and functions of the Security Council itself. There is a provision in Article 11 that a question on which action is necessary shall be referred to the Security Council, but the same article specifically states that nothing in it shall limit the general scope of Article 10. The one specific exception provided in Article 10 is that the Assembly shall not make recommendations with regard to a dispute or situation in respect to which the Security Council is exercising the functions assigned to it in the present Charter. This would mean, for instance, that the Assembly cannot deal with Korea while the Security Council is dealing with the same issue. But the Assembly may take up the issue under two conditions. One is if the Security Council itself decides to submit the matter to the Assembly—a decision which is not subject to a veto but can be taken by majority vote, as has been done in several cases in the past. The other condition, on which legal experts agree, is that the Security Council, while retaining an issue on its agenda, is actually prevented from "exercising" its functions owing to a deadlock or a veto. The one remaining difference between the Assembly and the Security Council is that the Security Council may order enforcement action, while the Assembly can only recommend it. That difference is important because refusal by any nation to carry out a decision of the Security Council is a direct violation of the Charter but refusal to carry out a recommendation of the Assembly is not. This means that the Assembly would be able to provide the important moral sanction for an enforcement action to suppress aggression, but it could scarcely precipitate one unless its recommendation was backed by at least some of the Big Powers who would have to bear the main burden of it. This provides adequate safeguards against the remote contingency, feared by some, that the small nations might combine to order the Big Powers into war against their will or judgment.

ROXY BROADWAY Theatre

AIR-CONDITIONED

SHOWING TO-DAY AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.

A THRILLING TRIBUTE TO THE GUARDS ARMOUR DIVISION! THE TERROR AND THRILLS OF TANK WARFARE — FROM NORMANDY TO THE ARDENNES!

THEY WERE NOT DIVIDED

— NEXT CHANGE —

Columbia Pictures Presents

"FORTUNES OF CAPTAIN BLOOD"

STARRING

LOUIS HAYWARD

with

PATRICIA MEDINA • GEORGE MACREADY

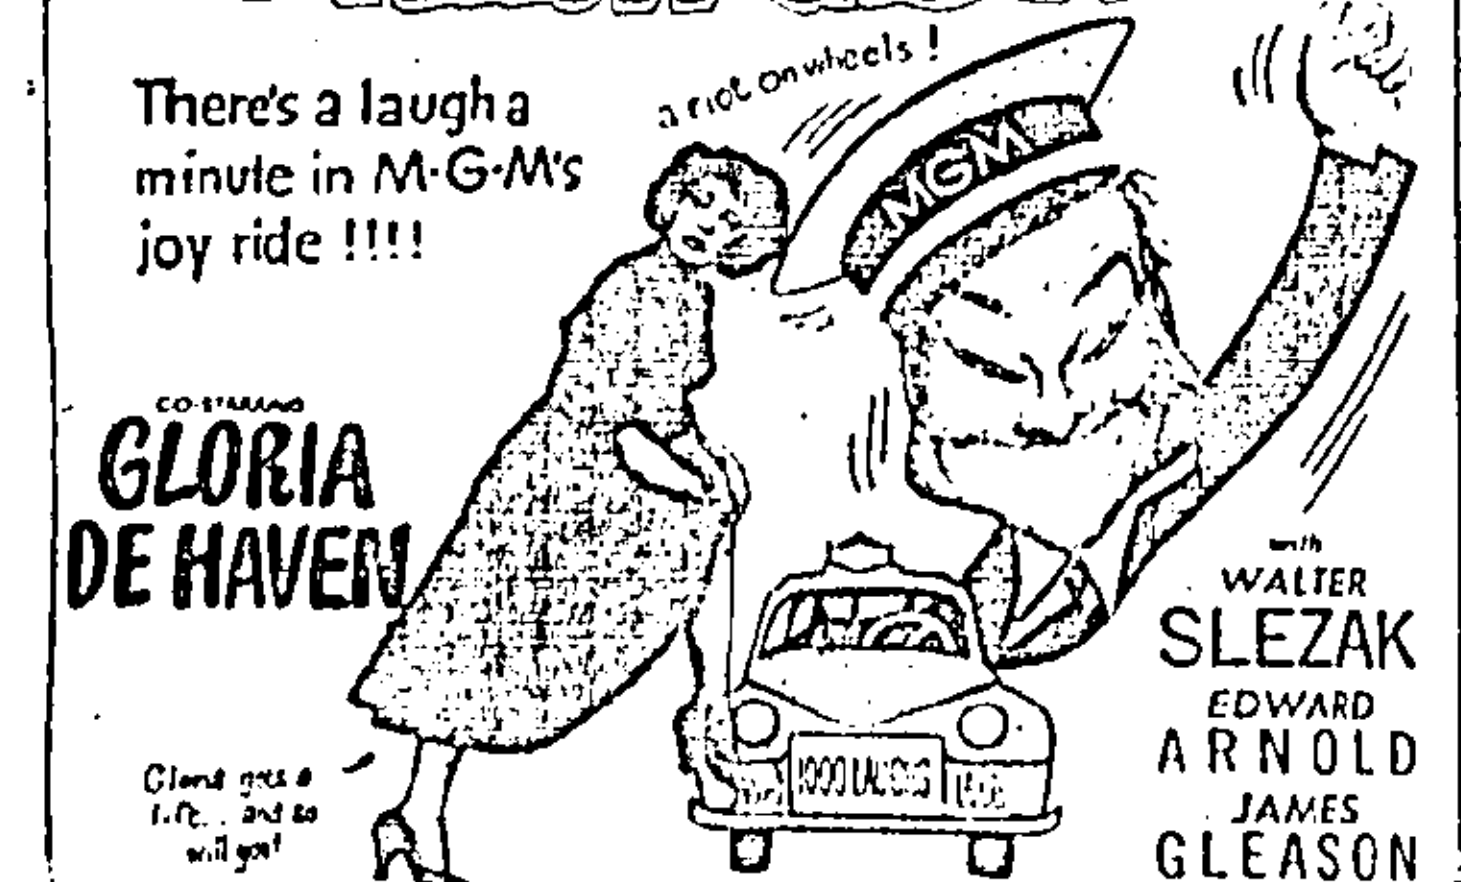

QUEEN'S ALHAMBRA

AIR-CONDITIONED

TO-DAY ONLY AT 2.30, 5.15, 7.20 & 9.30 P.M.

RIDE AND ROAR WITH RED... RIDE AND ROAR WITH RED... RIDE AND ROAR WITH RED...

RED SKELTON IS THE YELLOW CAB MAN

There's a laugh a minute in M-G-M's joy ride!!!!

CO-STARRING GLORIA DE HAVEN

WALTER SLEZAK EDWARD ARNOLD JAMES GLEASON

— OPENS TO-MORROW —

MGM's Wonderful Technicolor Musical!

"THREE LITTLE WORDS"

Starring: Fred ASTAIRE — Red SKELTON

TO-DAY ONLY MAJESTIC AIR-CONDITIONED

At 2.30, 5.20, 7.20 & 9.30 P.M.

TARZAN'S NEWEST ADVENTURE!

HELPLESS MAIDENS STOLEN FOR HEATHEN HAREM... and Tarzan vows vengeance!

ADDED! LATEST KOREAN WAR NEWS

OPENS TO-MORROW! Maureen O'HARA • Macdonald CARY

in "COMANCHE TERRITORY" Color by Technicolor

TO-DAY ONLY Cathay

AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.

FIRST SHOWING IN HONGKONG

WAN WAH'S GREATEST PRODUCTION

"THE DEVILS" 魔

A Mandarin Picture

Starring NAM MA • SHECK YUE • PAT FAN CHOW

TO-MORROW

Virginia MAYO in

"SMART GIRLS DON'T TALK"

WOMANSENSE

AN EXPERIMENT IN EMBROIDERY DESIGN

By Dorothy Barkley

LONDON. TO stimulate a renaissance in British embroidery design, the Arts Council has, during the last five years, been carrying out a unique experiment. The results are on view in London in a public exhibition. These beautiful embroideries, worked both by hand and by machine, seem to transform even the humblest curtain and table mat into something rich and rare.

The Needlework Development Scheme, on recommending its work at the end of the war, began a search for more designers, with original ideas. Original ideas were sought, so that a tradition might be developed to give a stimulus to succeeding generations of art students.

"The Needlework Development Scheme decided to keep the work of the designer and craftsman separate. They asked Miss Mary Kessel to concentrate on the creation of artistic designs, and selected a team of embroideresses from Bromley

College of Art. Artist and craftsman worked together in close harmony.

Embroidery is essentially a womanly, homely craft. But many women are held back from doing more embroidery not only on their own clothing, and their children's, but on their linen, and furnishings, through lack of designs to copy from. This experiment should bridge the gap. Many of these embroideries are worked on the family sewing machine, adjusted for darning, which is quicker and more efficient than hand embroidery, and within the range of the layman.

The embroideresses have charm and grace; they are delicately stitched and coloured; they are fluid and lively. Birds, animals and flowers are featured frequently in the designs, and the care and attention to detail has produced gratifying results.

Obviously, but unexpectedly, the Mary Kessel designs cannot be interpreted by hand embroidery with any real success. For embroidery done by machine comes very much nearer the original designs. Hand embroidery is too static and too solid to interpret the nervous and sensitive quality of the drawings, whereas the machine with its flexibility and speed seems to hold the quick line of the motifs.

These motifs have been used to adorn tablecloths, mats, cushions, evening bags, gloves and children's clothes.

The photographs show that a delicate, lacy motif worked in white on a black fan, or a floral design on the back of a hand mirror, imparts an atmosphere of enchantment that is unusual and fascinating. In the same way, white muslin curtains are transformed by a plant motif worked on them in different colours.

I found the most pleasing work in the exhibition was a set of six organdie table mats with scalloped edges. Each is worked in pastel shades of blue, pink and green, but with a different motif—perhaps a kingfisher or a vase of flowers.

The Needlework Development Scheme is proceeding along the right lines to improve the standard of design and technique. When more designs are available, many will be encouraged to exercise their own imagination in embroidery. Execution of designs is a skill in itself, to be acquired and developed, just as a musician must practise to attain perfection in interpretation of a score!

Exhibits seen at the "Experiment in Embroidery Design" exhibition organised by the Arts Council. The embroideries have grace and charm and are delicately stitched and coloured.

"What to give" suggestions

FOR GIVING the woman who "has everything," how about quilted satin spectacle cases for boudoir wear, and even a pair of pastel spectacle frames in readiness for her own special prescription? Guaranteed to make reading in bed a really glamorous rite.

Another unusual gift suggestion, when there's a small daughter who wears glasses, is a mother-daughter duo in identical shape and colour. For instance, brown frames if mother favours brown accessories, and daughter wears the usual brown school shots with nearly everything she owns. Or flesh colour or cloud pink lucites, for flattering effect.

A great many complexes might be ironed out at the source if little sister had glasses she thought were pretty, and just like those mommy wears. To say nothing of the relief mother would feel if she knew the youngster was wearing her glasses all the time, and wearing them proudly.

And, a wonderful gift for the older woman who was brought up to think that glasses were a necessary evil, to be made as "inconspicuous" as possible, is a pair of glasses in the new pastels which are so lovely with snow white hair.

JUMPERS are more prominently in the fashion picture than last year. Newest-looking are the jumper dresses which have cap or brief sleeves, so that they can be worn without blouses for early Autumn, or can even be dressed up with accessories for evening wear. Some are slashed to the waist in order to focus more attention on the blouse. American houses are lining corduroy jumpers with matching broadcloth and are showing blouses to match.

Jumpers are also being given dropped waist effects with inset belts or have a long torso look, the fullness breaking below the hips.

Weekends and jumpers contribute to the emphasis placed on the sleeveless look. Weekends in contrasting colours or fabrics are featured. They range from suede cloth to checked corduroy and tweed-like wool jerseys. One new idea is the use of the two-tone reversible weekit, with studs instead of buttons. Jerseys have a bloused look above the belt, fit smoothly over the hips, and are worn more frequently in woollens than in corduroy.

Skirt News

From the wide selection offered in separate skirts, manufacturers indicate that they anticipate doing a large volume on this item. The full skirt continues to be at least a 60 percent favourite. Box pleats look newer than bias goes for achieving full sweeps. The pleated fullness breaks low, at times falling from deep front pockets, or pocket flaps. Wide belts are attached for the lowered waist look. Self belts with leather trimming are favoured over all-leathers.

Wrapped effects are strongly favoured in straightline skirts some buttoning down one side, others down both sides. Peg tops are also noted in separate skirt collections. These are in modified rather than exaggerated versions, and are topped with wide waistbands, at times in a contrasting colour. Simple fly front skirts continue to be shown, and are expected to be big runners again this year.

In more expensive skirts, the emphasis is on line, and ways and means of controlling fullness in order to keep a slim effect even though the skirt has ample sweep for walking ease. Skirts have pocket interest which are shaped to give bulk at the hips.

Let's Eat

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

Boiled Beef "En Brochette"

TO cook meat or fish on brochette is a method that can be used for indoor cooking or for the outdoor barbecue. "Yet few homemakers use it, Chef, because they don't own the long metal brochettes. These are not expensive, and are a worthwhile investment. But ordinary short metal skewers can be substituted by using two for each person."

"En brochette" is a good way to make expensive tender meat go twice so far. I cook sliced chicken breasts, lamb kidneys or beef en brochette, and in season I use oysters or scallops. These are all equally good broiled by the range or the electric grill, or outdoors over a charcoal. The secret is to cut the meat 1/4 inch thick, and to slip the pieces onto the brochettes alternately with a slice of onion, strip of green pepper or small wedge of tomato, and small squares of bacon to taste the meat while broiling.

"Brochette" Dinner

Tossed Green Salad Bowls
Broiled Beef en Brochette
Escalloped Potatoes
Lemon-Seasoned Beets
New England Molasses Doughnuts
Cheese
Hot or Iced Coffee or Tea
Milk

All Measurements Are Level Unless Otherwise Stated

Boiled Beef en Brochette

Order 1 lb. thin-sliced tender steak, or use frozen minute steaks. (In this case they should be defrosted.) Cut in pieces the size of a half dollar. Slide onto brochettes, or skewers, alternately with inch squares of lean bacon and thin slices of onion. Place in an oiled pan. Slide into a preheated broiler 3" from the heat. Broil about 12 min. Turn once and add salt and pepper. Pour over 3 tsp. melted butter mixed with 1/2 tsp. lemon juice and serve on the brochettes.

New England Molasses Doughnuts

Into a bowl measure 1 c. dark molasses; add 2 eggs, beaten light, 2 tsp. melted shortening, any kind, and 1 c. milk. Sift to- gether 4 c. enriched flour, 2 tsp. baking powder, 1 tsp. baking soda, 1 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. nutmeg and 1/2 tsp. cinnamon into the first mixture. Mix, cover and let stand 10 to 15 min. Then transfer half the dough to a pastry board or cloth dusted with flour. Roll to 1/4" in thickness, and shape with a doughnut cutter. Fry in deep fat enough to brown a cube of bread in 1 min. at 350° F. Drain on crumpled paper towels. Cool and dust with powdered sugar.

Trick of the Chef

Split and toast leftover doughnuts. Nice for breakfast.

Reversible Circular Cape

Lay fold toward you and mark centre A. Measure in 3" from A for B. Tie end of string to a pencil or chalk, hold other end at B, and draw an arc from C to D. Cut on this line.

Measure in from A 1/4 neck measure (E) and to right on fold (F). Draw front neck curve. Measure 1" to left of A for C and draw back neck curve. Cut out neckline and slash fold to 1/2" for centre front.

Cut Second Fabric

Fold, mark and cut second fabric in same way. Open circles out flat and lay rights together, centre fronts matching. Stitch edges together, starting at 1, stitching all around bottom edge and up to 1.

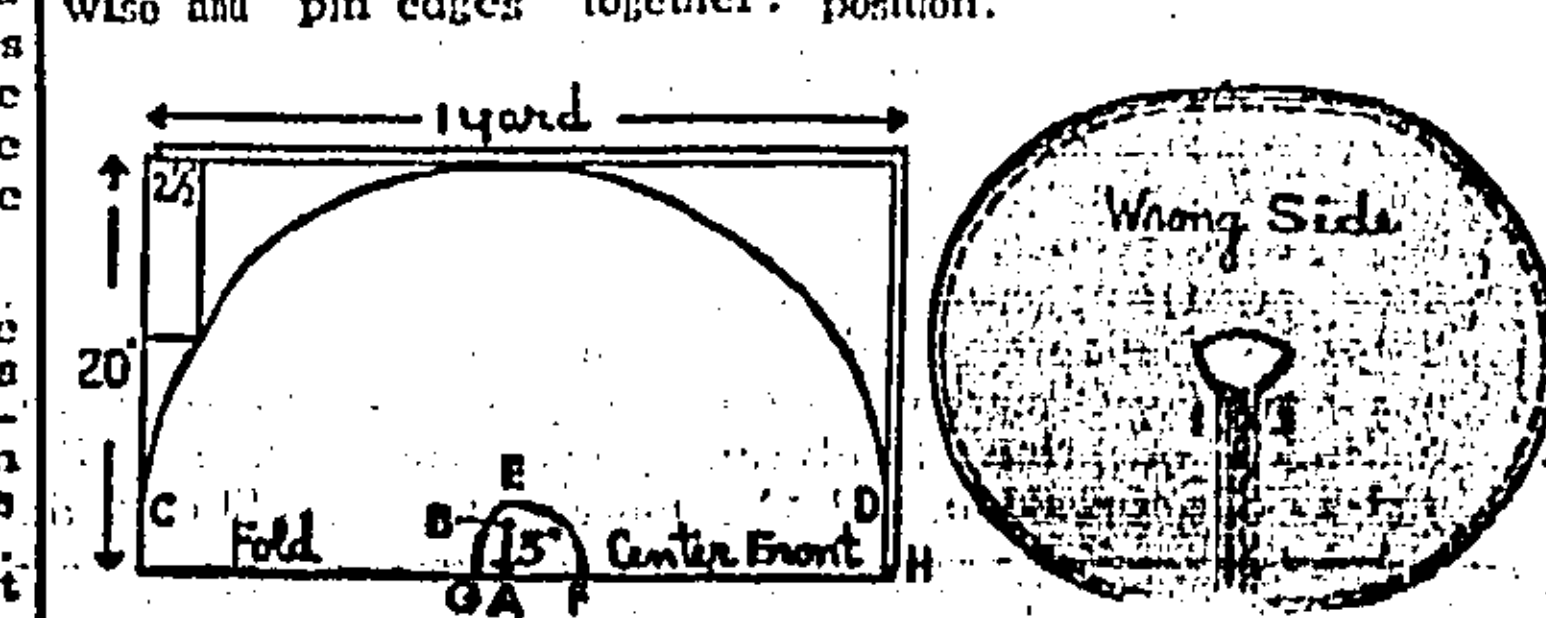

Clip off corners and along seam edge, as shown. Press seam open. Turn right side out through neckline. Baste close to turned edge and press. Baste neckline ridges together 1/4" in. Clip edges in 1/4".

To Match or Contrast

Two Colours Used

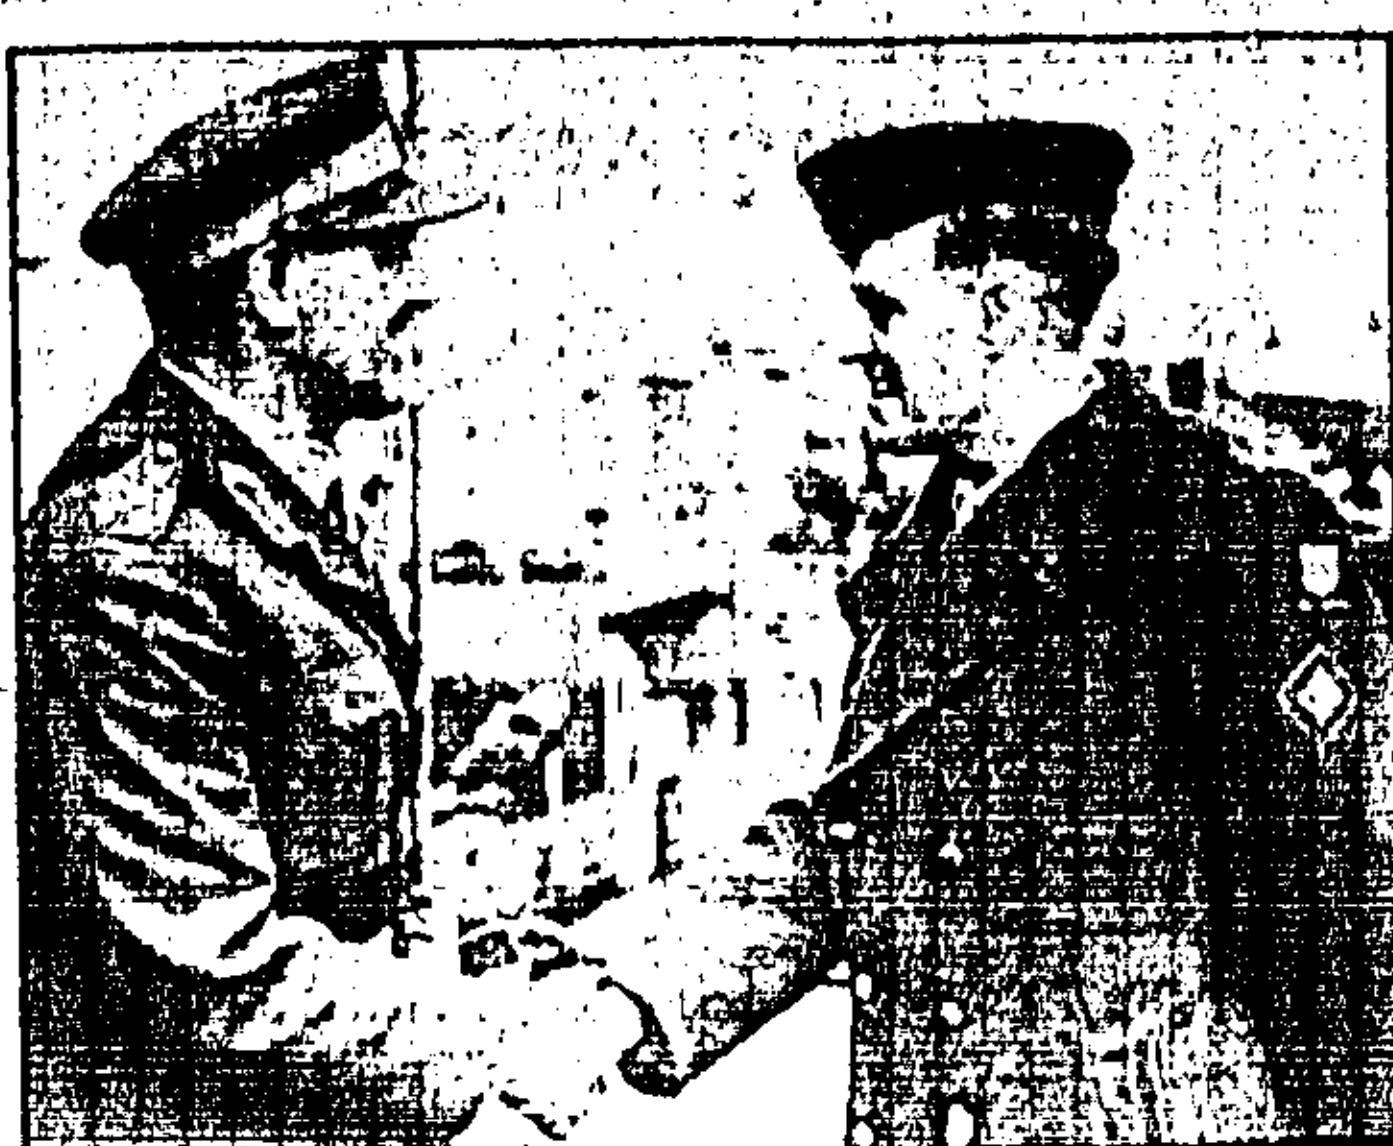

2 yds. of 42" material were used, 1 yd. of each colour. This cape is slightly longer over shoulders than at front and back. The extra 6" in fabric width makes this possible. If a 36" fabric is used, then buy 3/4 yd. of each fabric and make a smaller cape.

Fold one of the fabrics lengthwise and pin edges together.

TOMORROW: MAP CASE OF LEATHERETTE

French AA Gunners Visit Britain

FRENCH heavy anti-aircraft gunners of the 10th AA Artillery Regiment, some 120 strong, recently visited Britain under Western Union arrangements to carry out firing practice at the AA Command practice camp at Bude, Cornwall. The picture on left shows them partaking coffee and sandwiches before disembarking from the tank landing craft in which they crossed the Channel. Most of the soldiers came from the Brittany and Paris areas, and lower left photo shows them landing on English soil. Above: Lt. Col. Hocquard, commanding the Regiment, being welcomed at Plymouth by Brig. H. H. V. Christie, who commands the 81st AA Brigade, British Army.

ATOM FIRESTORM HAZARD FEARED

London. The least publicised—but most terrifying—result of atom bombing is now engaging the attention of British ARP experts. It is the dreaded "firestorm."

This may develop in large-area fires when the uplift of hot gases over the area is concentrated to such an extent that it becomes powerful enough to produce violent winds round the perimeter.

The winds reach hurricane force around 80 to 90 miles-an-hour, and though they assist the spread of the fire outwards, they intensify combustion in the burning area.

They have sufficient strength to drag people into the inferno.

People in shelters, though protected by the initial blast of the atom bomb, would probably die from lack of air which would be sucked out by the firestorm outside.

British scientists frankly admit that the firestorm presents a baffling problem.

WORST HIT

A Government manual on defence against atomic warfare reveals that nothing was known about it until the end of World War II.

Firestorms were caused in Germany by RAF saturation high explosive and incendiary bomb attacks during the war.

Hamburg was probably the worst hit. In four nights RAF bombers unloaded 8,000 tons of bombs, including incendiaries.

In one night 20,000 Germans died and 60,000 were taken to hospitals.

Most of the casualties resulted from a firestorm which enveloped the city.

The heat of the fire was so fierce that trees miles away from the area produced blossoms again, and the air became so rarefied that many people just outside the fire area died from suffocation.

When it was possible for Hamburg ARP men to enter the devastated area they found that a great number of people who had remained in shelters died through carbon monoxide poisoning.

STILL UNPRODUCTIVE

Hardly any of the dead who littered the shelters had suffered from bomb blast or falling debris.

Even now, seven years after it happened, the earth there is still unproductive.

The features of a firestorm are intense heat and high winds which make the task of fire fighting and rescue practically impossible.

But the experts emphasise that a firestorm does not happen at once.

The time-lag between the actual bombing and the development of a firestorm may be long or short.

But what is most important is the urgent recognition of its symptoms.

To save life, the danger area must be evacuated immediately.

They'll Wed In The Nude

The male and female winners of a nudist beauty contest will wed this month at Pennsylvania Sunbathers' Camp.

The winners, Frank Molnar and Auburn-haired Vickie Atkins, sat on their throne after being crowned King and Queen of the nudists.

Frank and Vickie—both are 27—say they will wear "absolutely nothing" at their wedding.

Said Vickie: "The wedding will be quite informal. All the guests, as well as the officiating clergyman, will be in the nude."

Vickie and Frank were both wearing clothes when they first met, but their romance flowered amid the nudity of a sunbathers' camp.

"I went to the camp in May, Frank came in June," Vickie recalls. "We both liked what we saw and decided to stay."

SHERIFFS WENT FEUDIN'

Two deputy sheriffs of Mibola (Texas) recently shot it out in the best traditions of the old west after a quarrel over a minor traffic accident.

The pair stepped off six paces, drew, fired, in front of the office of the local Justice of the Peace.

One was killed, the other was seriously injured.

Will Whittle died with five bullets in his head. Wesley Taylor who, according to a witness, had not turned to draw when Whittle fired, was hit in the back, but emptied five chambers of his .38 revolver at Whittle before he fell.

Townfolk said the pair had been "fussin' and feudin'" off and on for the past 12 years.

THE DESERT GIVES UP ONE MORE SECRET

Alice Springs. Australia's inland deserts, blooming after their first plentiful rains in 50 years, continue to reveal to the white man secrets known before only to the blacks.

Latest discovery is that of a cave used for the secret initiation rites of the Wallabi tribe, the remnant of a once-powerful group of aborigines whose hunting grounds covered a vast area north-west of Alice Springs.

The discoverer of the cave is Field Officer M. Grealorex, of the Northern Territory Lands Department. He found it while investigating the pastoral possibilities of the area.

Only ruins which filled water-holes and claypan soaks, normally dry 99 percent of the time, enabled him to reach the cave, which is under a large rocky outcrop in the centre of an otherwise flat spinifex plain between the Trear and Siddleley ranges, 170 miles from The Alice.

The walls of the cave are covered with paintings of animals and birds in vivid oranges, reds, and black. Their significance cannot be determined by any of the many aboriginal-lore-soaked people of this town.

SETTLERS SPEARED

The Wallabris were one of the tribes scattered through the deserts by punitive expeditions which made the task of fire fighting and rescue practically impossible.

There are now about 200 of them left. On walkabout they usually travel between the Wandurra Mission, run by a Baptist order, and the Lutheran Mission, about 100 miles to the north at Hana's Bluff.

Their initiation ceremonies—the process of making "young men"—are carried out by the

NAIROBI MEMORIAL TO RAF

A memorial to members of the Royal Air Force and of Commonwealth Air Forces who died in the service of their countries during the second World War was dedicated at a special service held recently in All Saints' Cathedral, Nairobi.

The cost of the memorial was met by public subscription in Kenya. The memorial, which takes the form of an altar set in silver comprising a cross, two vases and two candlesticks, was formally presented to the governor, the Very Reverend H.A. Hopkins, by the Air Officer Commanding East Africa, Air Commodore L.T. Pankhurst, CBE. At the same time, Air Commodore Pankhurst presented the cathedral with a pew made by RAF craftsmen in East Africa.

Later in the service, which was attended by the Acting Governor, Mr. J. D. Rankine, and other leading personalities in the colony, a wreath was laid on the altar by the Vice-President of the RAF Association in Kenya, Squadron Leader C. A. Hooper.

elders. It is a painful period for the young buck seeking admission to the mysteries of his fathers.

In aboriginal dialect the newly discovered cave is called Rogudi. The paintings on its walls are mainly of emus, emu tracks, eggs, and other symbolic figures.

Most of them are believed to represent a "worm's eye view." Thus the paintings of the emus' feet are of the bottoms.

PAINTING OF SNAKE

One feature represents an emu—complete with claws and feathers—squatting on some eggs.

Mystery surrounds them, and also a small "churinga"—a stone post—which stands on the cave floor directly in front of the painted emu tracks.

Field Officer Grealorex and Mr. Ian Hope-Murray have also visited the little-known Ngarna cave, 15 miles north of the Rogudi cave.

Only a handful of white men have ever seen this cave, which is on part of Mount Doreen station, leased by Mr. W. Bratling. Scratched on the rockface of the cave is the message, "Passed here 3/7/29," and three undecipherable names.

Like Rogudi, the cave is used only after the rains.

Of particular interest is a painting on the wall of a snake measuring more than 30 feet in length.

The serpent is a phallic symbol, and figures prominently in many aboriginal legends and myths.

The Wallabris call the serpent Wamambi. To them it represents life. They believe that when they see travelling dust-storms and desert whirlwinds the serpent is travelling beneath the ground.

LIFE AND LEARNING

When the time comes for the young boys of the tribe to be initiated to warriorhood, the elders often refer to the rites as the "swallowing by the serpent."

When the young men successfully conclude the rites, they are "vomited up" by the serpent.

Thus, to the aboriginal, the serpent represents both life and learning.

It is obvious that the cave discovered by Field Officer Grealorex has been used for tribal ceremonies for thousands of years; and that it was still being used by the Wallabris until the time of its discovery.

Whether or not the natives will still use it now that it is known to white men can only be conjectured.

Return

BACK on the stage in Munich, Germany, after an absence of 15 years, American Negro star Josephine Baker does a routine for an enthusiastic audience. She became a popular star in France about 20 years ago. (Ame.)

BUFFALO MARITAL MIX-UP

A new York Supreme Court judge recently annulled a woman's ten-year marriage when she said her husband's father was the father of her six children.

She is Mrs. Agnes Herkey, 28, of Buffalo. She made the admission when her husband, William Herkey, 28, sought an annulment.

Herkey, whose father, 65, was killed in a motor accident a year ago, said: "The general idea was for me to marry her to give her first unborn child a name. I was only 18 at the time. I always obeyed my father. I thought I was doing him a favour."

The wife said: "I was a domestic in the house when I first had relations with my husband's father."

"His wife, who was living in the house, died soon after my marriage to her son."

"She did not know I was pregnant."

REAL 'ALONE' PART

Austrian film director Georg Wilhelm Fabst has asked Grete Garbo to star in a film of Homer's Odyssey.

He has not yet chosen an actor for the all-important part of Ulysses.

But he badly wants Garbo, of the husky voice, to play the part of Penelope, the wife who stayed at home during Ulysses' wanderings.

London Diary:

HUSBAND-AND-WIFE TEAM ABSORBING 'ATMOSPHERE'

In London now are a husband-and-wife script writing team with an idea. They are Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich, who wrote the "Thin Man" films. They feel that American film writers should leave Hollywood as often as possible and travel in countries where their films are shown.

So they have spent five weeks motoring around Britain and absorbing "atmosphere."

The Hacketts live in Los Angeles. Their life there, they tell me, is dull—just working and eating. They have little to say of the alleged "glamour" of the film world. In fact, the district they live in, Bel-Air, is sardonically known as the Forest, Lawn of the Living, Forest Lawn is the famous Californian cemetery.

Both were once on the stage. Hackett has been in the theatre since he was six. He was educated at the New York Professional Children's School (for stage children).

They collaborated on a play in 1932—"Up Goes the Devil." It ran for eight months, was bought for a film. They decided to get married on the proceeds, and have been writing plays and films ever since.

The most striking thing they have seen in England; sheep in Hyde Park. What would they most like to see? A Christmas pantomime. What do they think of British films? "They are wonderful."

WARM WELCOME

Canada's Director of Immigration, Mr. C. E. S. Smith, wants to "bring it forcibly to the attention of the British people that they are warmly welcomed in Canada."

In the first seven months of this year, only 7,945 Britons emigrated to Canada. Mr. Smith has come to London to stimulate his immigration policy.

Says Mr. Smith: "Many opportunities await men and women with courage and initiative."

"Our object is between 25,000 and 65,000 immigrants annually. There are jobs for everyone—whatever his trade or profession."

AFTER MOLYNEUX

What is to become of No. 42, Grosvenor Street, W. London headquarters of the Molyneux fashion house until they closed down here? The place was bought by Jack Rose and Company, has six floors, an area of 35,000 square feet. Mr. Jack Rose is silent about the future of No. 42. But it is doubted if any fashion house will take it. Dress shops, by helping to make Grosvenor Street commercially fashionable, have increased the value of property there.

Few London fashion houses could now afford to take No. 42. My information is that an industrial firm are to rent it as an office, at around £35,000 a year. The property is probably worth £500,000.

JETS BEFORE NYLONS

Two pretty Spanish sisters who think more of jet aeroplanes than nylons have flown home to Madrid from London, with their father, Jose Maria Ansaldor, director and chief test pilot of a Spanish airline.

News of the Farnborough air show sent them pleading to their father, "Take us to Britain." He consented and gave the girls, aged 19 and 20, the biggest thrill of their lives. "Oh, your Sapphire Nylons," they say. "The jets are wonderful."

'NO' TO PRINCESS

They are talking in Scotland about the girl who said "No" to Prince Margaret, at the Perth Hunt Ball.

The Princess had a 4.15 a.m. breakfast of bacon and egg, toast, butter, coffee.

Afterwards she sent for Miss Kay Brown, dark-haired, attractive executive of the firm in charge of catering, asked to see the bacon and eggs being fried for the 450 guests.

Miss Brown did not think a visit to the cellars would be advisable. Said the Princess: "Perhaps you're right."

CLUBHOUSE SINKING

Eltham Lodge is the beautiful 17th century clubhouse of the oldest golf club in the world, the Royal Blackheath. Unfortunately, it is in need of extensive renovation. Hopes of getting the work done in the near future are fading.

HER SHOW WAS A PARIS EVENT

Painter Duvy Anderson is a success in Paris.

An ex-mannequin who began painting only a year ago sold five pictures for a total of £500 on the first day of an exhibition of her paintings just opened in Paris.

The artist is blonde 28-year-old "Duvy" Anderson, wife of Hollywood director John Negulesco. Opening of her show was a social event. The Duchess of Windsor was there. So were Lady Diana Cooper, the U.S. Ambassador, Mr. Bruce, and Miss Elsa Maxwell.

Buyer of one picture is said to be dress designer Schiaparelli. Other buyers were art dealers, and a French industrialist.

Says Miss Anderson: "I paint for fun like Mr. Churchill, and I don't care what the critics think."

(London Express Service)

Look Who's Here

U.S. Air Force Major Weldon M. Politt, left, in charge of recruiting in Buffalo, New York, presents comedian Joe E. Brown with a scroll naming him an honorary recruiting sergeant. The actor was on hand to do a show in Buffalo. (Ame.)

'I Done Ma Best' Says Louis

BY PETER WILSON

New York.

The closed eye which Joe Louis got as his "cut" for losing the world's heavyweight title to Ezzard Charles is as nothing to the black eye which the sport of boxing got from this fight.

For, as the few thousands filed slowly out of the Yankee Stadium more like a funeral cortege than a sports crowd, everyone seemed to be saying: "He didn't oughta have had to do it."

What they meant was that the man who has made more than a million pounds out of his strength and skill and blazing honesty and sincerity should not have been forced to fight when he was years past his best in order to pay his Government taxes, which his advisers should have made him settle when he incurred them.

The supreme ironic tragedy is that Louis got only some $235,000 for this last fight, and he already owed nearly $200,000 in income tax—additionally, there will be fresh taxes to pay on this fight. So, if ever a man was on a hiding-to-nothing, that man was Joe Louis—the very last person to whom it should have happened.

This should not have happened to a dog, and it happened to the lion of the ring. I hate funeral wakes—even when the corpse can talk. And the scene in Louis's dressing room only needed wreaths to be a wake.

HIS LAST FIGHT

The ruin of Louis was there. The great brown mallet of his left was buried wrist deep in a bucket of ice.

His left eye was a purple plum of pain. The mouth was a black hole inside and red raw at the edges like the clot of a pillbox.

He answered questions—slowly and fumblingly as he moved in the ring, like a blind man feeling his way round a room in which the furniture had been rearranged. No, he would positively never fight again. He had intended to have two more fights had he won—presumably he thought with those two he would have been able to pay off his debts, for Joe is no tax dodger. No, he had not ever been hurt, except for his eye. Yes, he had injured his left hand in the third round. No, this was not his hardest fight. No, he never thought he had got Charles, even in the tenth round, which was his best.

'SURE... ROUND 1'

There was one flash of the old, almost self-mocking humour. I asked him if there had been a turning point in the fight. He gave me a snappy grin through his split liver-lips and through his split lip-lips and said: "Sure—the turning point was the first round, when I knew I was not fighting well."

LIKE THRASHED CHILD

Louis brought flowers to the compost heap which professional fighting is often. That was why, in the 14th round against Charles, I was not alone at the ringside in urging the second hand to move round faster so that the Big Bronze would be spared the final humiliating crucifixion of a knock-out.

That was why, in the 14th round, it was tragic to see Louis, looking like a child who has been thrashed with a belt, kneeling out of his one good eye, fumbling with one hand for the ropes to keep himself upright.

And then getting a right uppercut which splashed blood from his nose and mouth clear out of the ring, and which nearly tore his left eye from its socket.

I have never liked bullfighting, and Louis was always looking like a bull when the danger is in—bewildered, unable to comprehend that this should be happening to him.

THE WORLD'S BEST

Charles fought a good fight. Ten years ago I don't think he would have gone ten rounds with Louis. But today he will beat any heavyweight in the world—and for many days to come.

But I wonder how many people will pay to see him do it?

He will probably rest for a couple of months. Then there is Lee Savold or Freddie Bechore—and precious few others. He has beaten Joe Maxim three times. He has beaten Joe Walcott. He has stopped Bakki. Who else is there?

And, in my opinion, never will so little have been paid by so few for a world's heavyweight championship as for a Charles-Savold fight.

Since Joe Louis retired in 1948 I have been saying that Charles is the best heavy-weight in the world. I didn't pick him against Joe because I was always siding along with the old guy, and because I didn't think that Louis had completely lost his touch. As a matter of fact, he hasn't. He still touches you in the heart.

(London Express Service)

THE BETTING

Lord Astor's French Squadron, the favourite for tomorrow's Caserewitch Handicap at Newmarket, was heavily backed from 10 to 1 to 9 to 1 at the final Victoria Club enquiry here tonight.

Bookmakers gave separate quotations to 15 of the 38 probable starters. The closing quotations were: 9 to 1 French Squadron, 100 to 8 White Rose and Stralingspy.

100 to 6 Speciality, High Forest and Come to Good. 20 to 1 Above Board. 25 to 1 China II, Extra Dry and Harlech. 28 to 1 Royal Oak. 33 to 1 Le Teller, Danae II, Vidi Vici.

WEST HAM BEAT BRADFORD

London, Oct. 10. West Ham beat Bradford by 5-1 goals to 2 in a National Speedway League match at West Ham here tonight. Malcolm Craven was the top scorer for the London team with 11 points. Bradford's best man was Jack Elges with nine points. —Reuter.

ARSENAL v WEST BROMWICH ALBION

Lishman scores the first goal for Arsenal against West Bromwich Albion at Highbury after a scramble in the goalmouth. Arsenal won 3-0.

Tommy Farr Says 'One Slip And I'm Finished'

ONLY TWO COMMANDMENTS MATTER IN THE DOG-EAT-DOG PROFESSION

SAYS ALAN HOBY

In the "dog-eat-dog" profession of pugilism there are only two commandments that matter. Punch or be punched. Slay or be slain. Joe Louis, hunted by tax blood-hounds, snail-slow, tired, and fat, forgot them, and was slashed into a wheezing, gory ruin by a fighter who couldn't have licked him with four hands ten years ago.

One man who hasn't forgotten his boxing "bible," it seems, is 36-year-old Tommy Farr. If he had, the determined, tough-minded Welshman could never have made a come-back at all—either at Pontypridd or anywhere else.

After a ten-year lay-off Farr trained six months for his opening clash with the Dutch champion Jan Klein. Chancing nothing, Farr also perfected in secret the two blows—a left hook to the liver and right chop to the jaw—which stiffened the 6ft 4in., 15st. 5lb. Dutchman in the sixth.

None of this would have been possible, however, if, as a young man, Farr hadn't learned his grim trade in a tough, hard school. In his heyday the Tony-pandy "Terror" trained constantly and fought frequently.

It was this precious hoard of experience dredged from the carnage of countless ring battles which, against Klein, enabled him to use his left hand like a scalpel and his right like a bludgeon.

CHALLENGE TO YOUTH

Farr's wind and legs, which I had suspected, were fine. All through he produced nimble moves which make the majority of modern heavies look cumbersome and slow-witted.

That's why, whatever may happen in the future, Farr's return to the ring is, in my opinion, GOOD FOR BOXING.

Today, boxers who dedicate themselves to the constant toll which alone produces world champions, are as rare as an Eskimo in Piccadilly. It took Farr seven years to win his first championship, the Welsh light-heavyweight title. It took him 12 nights to win the British heavyweight championship.

Seventy-nine combats were marked against his name before he entered boxing's hall of fame by going 15 rounds with Joe Louis. That was Farr.

Another more recent champion had a bare 10 professional bouts before taking the title. Since then his limitations have been painfully exposed by a trio of rugged Americans—Tommy, Marcellino, Joe Bakki, and Lee Savold. That was Woodcock.

MAN ON A PRECIPICE

What of Farr's future? No one knows better than Tommy that his victory over Klein, although extremely competent, was not by any means a world-shattering performance. It is certainly not one which gives him the right to claim a meet.

Although he will probably have two more tuning-up scraps with Europeans—Ole Tandberg, conqueror of Bakki, would be a good opponent, although it is only a win over a Yank (Bakki or Savold, maybe) which will restore Farr to the world rankings.

Farr's problem—and he knows it—is that every fight must be a winner.

"I am like a man on a precipice," he told me. "One slip and I am finished."

THE FASTEST WICKET

The other day I quoted an Australian Test cricketer who said that the Sydney wicket was the most "menacing" in the world. Whereupon a member of the Australian Cricket Board promptly denied it!

Now "Jack" Livingston, the Australian cricketer who plays for Northants, writes: "From experience I would rather bat against 'quicks' on any other wicket than the Sydney wicket. It is easily the fastest on which I've played."

Discussing Australian umpiring, would like to see some of England's leading umpires officiating for a season in Australia.

"I am quite certain the Australian umpires would welcome an opportunity of studying the methods of such experts as Frank Chester, Dai Davies, Frank Lee, and others."

A good idea. What about an exchange of umpires?

Tallpipe: Is Joe Louis bankrupt? NO. Every cent of the $35,000 he earned for fighting Charles goes, of course, to the taxman. He is supposed to owe $71,000. Joe has only a fraction left of the $633,000 he made during his career.

This includes a Chicago garage, a Detroit beer delivery firm, and a maturing annuity. And he still draws $5,300 weekly as a member of the International Boxing Commission Board with an interest in Charles.

Whoever Ezzard fights he will still be earning money for loser Louis.

(London Express Service)

Belgians Beat All-Israel

Tel-Aviv, Oct. 10. The Belgian national athletics team today won 10 out of the 11 track and field events in a match here against the winners of the recent Maccabiah Games.

The Belgians broke five Israel all-comers' records. Gaston Reiff, the Belgian holder of the Olympic 3,000 metres title, won the 3,000 metres to set up All-Israel all-comers' record of 8 mins. 33.4 secs.—Reuter.

Rugger Results

London, Oct. 10. The following were the results of rugger games played today:

RUARY LEAGUE YORKSHIRE CUP Semi-final Batley 1, Castleford 2.

LANCASHIRE CUP Semi-final Oldham 0, Warrington 5.—Reuter.

THE CORINTHIANS RETURN TO KENNINGTON OVAL

By Archie Quick

The Corinthians returned to Kennington Oval after a lapse of 58 years to play a Football Association eleven in a celebration match and lost by two goals to one against a side of eight players near amateur international standard and three well-known professionals.

It is not the intention to re-start the famous old club, although if, in the several matches which have been arranged for them, they should do well, the Committee might consider the resumption of tours on the Continent and entry to the FA Cup competition.

I am afraid though the present available players are but a pale shadow of their illustrious predecessors, and I cannot see them triumphing against teams like Blackburn Rovers, Norwich or Walsall in the Cup as the Corinthians of the 19th century did.

ONLY QUALIFICATION Then they were always drawn from the Varsity list. In fact, it was the only qualification for membership as the Achilles Club is to running and Leander to rowing. My old playing colleague, A. E. Knight, of Portsmouth, was indeed the first non-University man to be admitted to the hallowed ranks—and they could not very well keep him out after he had played a full international for England and was a dyed-in-the-wool amateur.

When I think of the great names—Howard Baker, Bower, the Ashton brothers, Knight, Chandler, Hegan, Robins, Moulden, Fabian, Crook, Doggart, and before them, Lord Kinnaird, G. O. Smith, C. B. Fry, R. E. Foster, the present supply falls far below standard.

How could they draw 120,000 to mighty Hampden for the annual match with Queens Park or take on the Barbarians and beat them at both Soccer and Rugby?

The Club has been moribund since 1938, and have only teamed under the unwieldy name of Corinthian-Casuals with their one-time rivals. It would be a grand thing, though, if the few matches which have been fixed this season could raise the standard of amateur Soccer by exciting a greater interest at Oxford and Cambridge Universities whose only outlet now, after the Undergraduates have gone down, is the newly-formed Pegasus Club.

THERE WERE GHOSTS There were ghosts about at the Oval match but in solid person there was a big turnout of Old Boys in the blue and silver striped ties. Amongst players there I noticed A. E. Knight, D. J. Knight, Howard Baker, Kenneth Hegan, Norman Creek, Arthur Fabian, Walter Webster, and John Shearer, all English Internationals.

The FA sent its Secretary and Treasurer, Sir Stanley Rous and Mr Harry Hubbard, and a fine army of Counsellors. Altogether it was a historic occasion, this raising again of soccer goals before the Kennington goalposts.

Jimmy Potts, the Corinthians' outside-left and the man of the match, gave them an early lead. Stroud, the Hendon outside-right, replied with two goals for the FA.

Corinthians, by the way, fielded three international forwards, Potts, Tanner of England and Kelleher of Ireland, and altogether performed most creditably.

M. Heenan Wins

Wins LRC Singles Title

M. Heenan, strong favourite for the triple crown in the men's and mixed doubles events of the Ladies' Recreation Club, won his first title yesterday, beating Dr G. B. Smart in the Singles final by 6-2, 6-1.

Play was actually much closer than the score would indicate although Heenan's superior all-round strokes were distinctly evident. Smart was a game loser but, kept on the retrieving end on the baseline, could not last the pace. He did produce some excellent forehand diagonal drives, however, that repeatedly caught Heenan on the other side of the court.

In the semi-final of the Club Ladies' Doubles, Mrs A. Sainsbury and Mrs A. Barty were unfortunate not to have won their match in straight sets. Holding leads of 6-4 and 5-1, they suddenly met with a spectacular recovery by Mrs Stroobach and Mrs Mackie, who took six games in a row to force a rubber. The score stood at 2-1 in favour of Mrs Sainsbury and Mrs Barty when play was called off on account of the falling light. By mutual agreement, the match will be played all over again.

Mrs Tanworth and Mrs Armstrong won the other semi-final but not after some stout resistance from Mrs Campbell and Mrs Geitz who extended the winners to 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

THE SCORES

The following were the full scores: Club Men's Singles Final—M. Heenan beat Dr G. B. Smart, 6-2, 6-1. Club Ladies' Doubles Semi-final—Mrs A. Sainsbury and Mrs A. Barty beat Mrs Stroobach and Mrs Mackie, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1. Club Men's Doubles Semi-final—Mrs Sainsbury and Mrs Barty beat Mrs Stroobach and Mrs Mackie, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1. Club Ladies' Singles Semi-final—Mrs Sainsbury beat Mrs Stroobach, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1.

There were ghosts about at the Oval match but in solid person there was a big turnout of Old Boys in the blue and silver striped ties. Amongst players there I noticed A. E. Knight, D. J. Knight, Howard Baker, Kenneth Hegan, Norman Creek, Arthur Fabian, Walter Webster, and John Shearer, all English Internationals.

The FA sent its Secretary and Treasurer, Sir Stanley Rous and Mr Harry Hubbard, and a fine army of Counsellors. Altogether it was a historic occasion, this raising again of soccer goals before the Kennington goalposts.

Jimmy Potts, the Corinthians' outside-left and the man of the match, gave them an early lead. Stroud, the Hendon outside-right, replied with two goals for the FA.

Corinthians, by the way, fielded three international forwards, Potts, Tanner of England and Kelleher of Ireland, and altogether performed most creditably.

Mrs Tanworth and Mrs Armstrong won the other semi-final but not after some stout resistance from Mrs Campbell and Mrs Geitz who extended the winners to 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Mrs Tanworth and Mrs Armstrong won the other semi-final but not after some stout resistance from Mrs Campbell and Mrs Geitz who extended the winners to 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Mrs Tanworth and Mrs Armstrong won the other semi-final but not after some stout resistance from Mrs Campbell and Mrs Geitz who extended the winners to 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Mrs Tanworth and Mrs Armstrong won the other semi-final but not after some stout resistance from Mrs Campbell and Mrs Geitz who extended the winners to 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Mrs Tanworth and Mrs Armstrong won the other semi-final but not after some stout resistance from Mrs Campbell and Mrs Geitz who extended the winners to 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Mrs Tanworth and Mrs Armstrong won the other semi-final but not after some stout resistance from Mrs Campbell and Mrs Geitz who extended the winners to 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Mrs Tanworth and Mrs Armstrong won the other semi-final but not after some stout resistance from Mrs Campbell and Mrs Geitz who extended the winners to 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Mrs Tanworth and Mrs Armstrong won the other semi-final but not after some stout resistance from Mrs Campbell and Mrs Geitz who extended the winners to 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Mrs Tanworth and Mrs Armstrong won the other semi-final but not after some stout resistance from Mrs Campbell and Mrs Geitz who extended the winners to 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Mrs Tanworth and Mrs Armstrong won the other semi-final but not after some stout resistance from Mrs Campbell and Mrs Geitz who extended the winners to 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

RECORD FIELD FOR THE CESAREWITCH

London, Oct. 10. There are now 38 probable runners for tomorrow's Caserewitch Handicap—one more than the record field for the event.

G. Littlewood will ride the well-fancied High Forest because he won the toss of a coin today. Littlewood and W. T. Evans, both jockeys to Captain Elsey, the trainer of High Forest, were told that they must decide themselves who will ride by tossing a coin.

The coin was tossed and Littlewood called heads, which was correct, and so he will have the mount. Evans won the race on Whiteway three years ago.

PROBABLE STARTERS

The probable runners and jockeys are: (C. Smirke), Chancelier (H. T. Lowrey), Cinnabar (W. H. Carr), Cider Apple (P. Tomlin), French Squadron (Gordon Richards), Harlech (E. C. Elliott), Le Hero (W. Rickaby), Merayon (S. Wragg), White Rose (W. Johnston), High Forest (G. Littlewood), Mexiquito (G. Littlewood), Thames (E. Mercer), Speciality (G. Gellin), Royal Oak (W. Nevett), Le Teller (W. Smith), Vidi Vici (S. Clayton), Light Cavalry (J. Sims), Above Board (E. Smith), Mon Prince (Thompson), Forest (A. Pymon), Garter Knight (J. Shrett), Phalaris (F. Dark), Capital Issue (T. Juster), Turkish Beau (H. Packard), Come to Good (Douglas Smith), Extra Dry (L. Pigott), Danae (A. Tucker), Blue Sapphire (R. Reader), Donington (H. J. Greenaway), Water Dis-cuit (W. Rees), Atomic Power (R. Bradley), Caledonia (J. Forde), Pomfret (H. Ward), Forget (D. Mercer), Ubbly (N. McInnes), Master Dun (A. Harvey)—Reuter.

The radiologist said he was satisfied that there was no fracture and that later a doctor would resort to the necessary treatment. Rest was essential for the present.

Brigadier Green disclosed that the swelling was caused by a thickening of the fibres, and it would remain with Hutton all through his life.

Hutton's right index finger was hit and badly bruised during the Manchester Test against the West Indies this summer, but he was able to play again later.

Brigadier Green added that no move had been made to ask the MCC in London for another player. The touring party visited the Western Australian ground here this afternoon for a muscle loosener after having earlier been given a civic reception.—Reuter.

Brigadier Green added that no move had been made to ask the MCC in London for another player. The touring party visited the Western Australian ground here this afternoon for a muscle loosener after having earlier been given a civic reception.—Reuter.

Brigadier Green added that no move had been made to ask the MCC in London for another player. The touring party visited the Western Australian ground here this afternoon for a muscle loosener after having earlier been given a civic reception.—Reuter.

Brigadier Green added that no move had been made to ask the MCC in London for another player. The touring party visited the Western Australian ground here this afternoon for a muscle loosener after having earlier been given a civic reception.—Reuter.

Brigadier Green added that no move had been made to ask the MCC in London for another player. The touring party visited the Western Australian ground here this afternoon for a muscle loosener after having earlier been given a civic reception.—Reuter.

Brigadier Green added that no move had been made to ask the MCC in London for another player. The touring party visited the Western Australian ground here this afternoon for a muscle loosener after having earlier been given a civic reception.—Reuter.

Brigadier Green added that no move had been made to ask the MCC in London for another player. The touring party visited the Western Australian ground here this afternoon for a muscle loosener after having earlier been given a civic reception.—Reuter.

Brigadier Green added that no move had been made to ask the MCC in London for another player. The touring party visited the Western Australian ground here this afternoon for a muscle loosener after having earlier been given a civic reception.—Reuter.

Argonauts Lose To Macao Hockey Club

The Argonauts "A" and "B" hockey teams travelled to Macao during the week-end and played one match each against Macao on Monday.

After holding the Macao team to a slender one goal lead in the first half, the Hongkong "A" team cracked up in the second half, allowing three more goals to be scored against them. B. Xavier scored the only goal for the Argonauts. Macao's star left-wing Almeida got a hat-trick for the home team.

The "B" match was won by Macao by three goals to nil.

ARMY HOCKEY TEAM

The following will represent the Army in their 1st Division Hockey League match against the Royal Navy on Thursday, October 12, at King's Park, Kowloon. Bully off at 5 p.m.

Cpl. Patridge, L/Cpl. Gardner, Cpl. Fitzgibbon, L/Cpl. McKendry, Rev. Crawford, C.Q.M.S. Grant, Cpl. Dudley, Major Lambie, WO1. Elch, C.Q.M.S. Webb, L/Cpl. Taylor, Reservists: Capt. Stubbs, OR.Q.M.S. Clarke.

All players on to report by 4.45 p.m. Transport at Star Ferry, Kowloon at 4.30 p.m.

Pace Bowling Worries

Worrell's Men

Rajkot, Western India, Oct. 10.

An eventful day's cricket opened the three-day match between the Commonwealth and Saurashtra here today, 14 wickets falling for 247 runs.

After the home side put in by Frank Worrell, the West Indian who captained the Commonwealth, had been dismissed for 139 runs—Sonny Ramadhin, the other West Indian, claimed three wickets for 21 runs—the Commonwealth lost four wickets for 48 runs.

Then a stand by George Tribe and Ken Griever, still together at the close, having put on 60 runs in 51 minutes, made the scoreboard look brighter for the touring side.

George Tribe, who was 36 not out at the close, had done the early damage against the home side as he took three wickets for 48 runs, including the Test players, Umrigar and Markand, before Ramadhin had his spell of success.

Pace bowling worried the Commonwealth early batsmen. Fishlock, Worrell and Ikin, all being victims of Nyalchanda's left-arm deliveries in five overs for only 18 runs.—Reuter.

Belgians Beat All-Israel

Tel-Aviv, Oct. 10. The Belgian national athletics team today won 10 out of the 11 track and field events in a match here against the winners of the recent Maccabiah Games.

The Belgians broke five Israel all-comers' records. Gaston Reiff, the Belgian holder of the Olympic 3,000 metres title, won the 3,000 metres to set up All-Israel all-comers' record of 8 mins. 33.4 secs.—Reuter.

Rugger Results

London, Oct. 10. The following were the results of rugger games played today:

RUARY LEAGUE YORKSHIRE CUP Semi-final Batley 1, Castleford 2.

LANCASHIRE CUP Semi-final Oldham 0, Warrington 5.—Reuter.

Belgians Beat All-Israel

Tel-Aviv, Oct. 10. The Belgian national athletics team today won 10 out of the 11 track and field events in a match here against the winners of the recent Maccabiah Games.

The Belgians broke five Israel all-comers' records. Gaston Reiff, the Belgian holder of the Olympic 3,000 metres title, won the 3,000 metres to set up All-Israel all-comers' record of 8 mins. 33.4 secs.—Reuter.

Rugger Results

London, Oct. 10. The following were the results of rugger games played today:

RUARY LEAGUE YORKSHIRE CUP Semi-final Batley 1, Castleford 2.

LANCASHIRE CUP Semi-final Oldham 0, Warrington 5.—Reuter.

Draw For The

Hardcourt Championships

The following is the draw for the various events of the Chinese Hardcourt Championships, sponsored by the Chinese Recreation Club. The opening matches will be played on Monday, October 16.

MEN'S SINGLES

First Round—Wong Kam-heung v. Lo Kin-wah; Cheong Tin-ching v. D. Lo; George Chao v. Cheung Sang; David King v. Cheong Tin-wah; F.L.I. v. K.C.A.; Lee v. Ng; George Chao v. Lin; J. v. Edwin Tsai; Tsang Yung-pui; Au Kam-moon; Wong Chan-lai; Wing-kong; Fritz Lin v. Z.L. Sia; Y. v. Lee; H. C. Kwok v. F. M. Ribeiro and T. E. Rodriguez; Cheung Chow and Chan Keok-hoi v. Cheong Tin-wah and Wong Shui-wing; Cheung Wing-wing and Cheong Tin-chi v. Daniel Chan and Ho Ka-lau; Cheong Ping-woon and Poon Pak-nai v. S. N. v. and F. C. (bye).

MEN'S DOUBLES

First Round—Molten Chan and Lui Kin-wah v. Tak-cheuk and K.C. Lai; N. Lo and E. Lo; George Chao and H. N. Lo v. Cheong Ching and L.C. Zimmerman; Cheong Tin-ching and F. M.

FOR YOUR SPARE MOMENTS

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Opponents Set By A Strategic Lead

By OSWALD JACOBY

CHOOSING the correct card to lead from a suit is not always a matter of remembering something that you have seen in a text book on contract bridge. The opening lead, to be sure, since it is often largely a matter of guesswork, must conform, as a general rule, to the accepted practice.

After the dummy has gone down, however, a great deal more information is available. The defender can often get better results by studying the cards they see and choosing a card to fit the exact situation than by following a general rule.

When this hand was played in a recent team-of-four match, the bidding was the same at both tables, and in both cases, West opened the club of clubs. In both cases, declarer won and immediately led the king of diamonds to set up that suit.

Each East player immediately took the ace of diamonds and returned a heart. It was at this

♠ QJ6	2	♠ 643
♥ 105		♥ J972
♦ Q1084		♦ A6
♣ J7		♣ 10864
♠ A752		♠ 643
♥ A98		♥ J972
♦ 753		♦ A6
♣ 82		♣ 10864
NE		SW
DEALER
♠ 109		♠ 643
♥ K642		♥ J972
♦ K3		♦ A6
♣ A3		♣ 10864
Neither vul.
South West North East
1 N.T. Pass 2 N.T. Pass
3 N.T. Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead—4♦

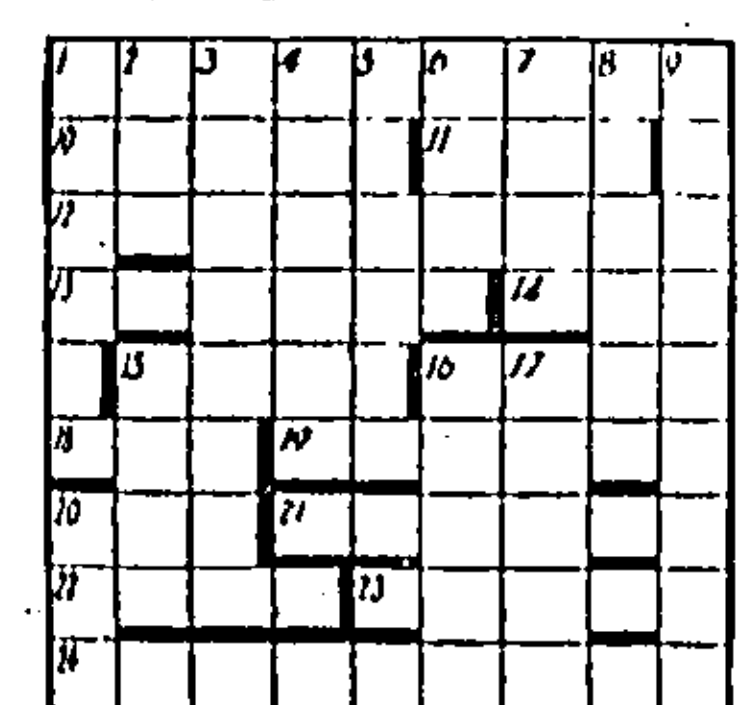

point that the sheep were separated from the goats.

In one room the East player made the conventional return of the deuce of hearts. Declarer properly played a low heart and West won with the queen. Now West could take his ace of hearts and his ace of spades; if he wished to do so, but no more. The defence could win only four tricks.

When the hand was played in the other room, East decided that the defence was hopeless unless several heart tricks could be won. This would be possible only if his partner had three or more hearts. He led the ace of hearts. West would take the ace and queen and follow with the eight of hearts. East would overtake with the nine of hearts, and the defence would therefore make four heart tricks.

Even if South played a low heart on East's jack, a heart continuation would assure the defenders three tricks in this suit. The ace of spades would then provide the setting trick.

CROSSWORD

- Across
1. Plan deliberately (10)
 2. A side that gives you nothing (10)
 3. No cert about this terrace (10)
 4. Enough to make any cheat root (10)
 5. You'll always get the answer from the chimney (10)
 6. You'll always get the answer from the chimney (10)
 7. French head in a late test (10)
 8. To folk the risk (10)
 9. Doubtless it made the rain (10)
 10. Far him—merited (10)
 11. Back water (10)
 12. Mountain of Greece (10)
 13. Or a top? Could be either (10)
 14. Little sister is no upset in such dismal surroundings (10)
- Down
1. Fruit (10)
 2. Terminated the dodo (10)
 3. A lion and a lion (10)
 4. Found in an old parchment (10)
 5. Pacific Ocean (10)
 6. Quite enough to make a lion (10)
 7. Change the dodo (10)
 8. Shares (10)
 9. Dropped them to be attached to them (10)
 10. The Professor's return (10)

DUMB-BELLS

HAVE YOU ANY DISTANT RELATIVES?

YOUR BIRTHDAY

By STELLA

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 11

IF you are born today, you have considerable artistic talent—and some of the temperament which goes with it. However, you have the desire to see any job you start, finished and, consequently, you are thorough and efficient once you get going. You are the type to fare best when faced with obstacles, for they give you an incentive to do your finest work. When things are going unsmoothly, you are apt to let down and slide along without putting out too much effort.

Music and literature are the two fields in which you will be happiest. Parents of children born on this day should make it possible for their progeny to study the art of their choice at a very early age. All of you born on this day probably will find it difficult to conform to convention. You will want to arrange your life in accordance with your own ideas and your "inspiration." Don't take advantage of this too much, for you will find out that a lot of inspiration comes from continuing to work hard at a project.

When it comes to marriage, you must be cautious in selecting your mate. It should be someone who understands your temperament and is willing to co-operate with you in your ambitions. Someone born under the same sign will be attuned to your personality. Such a team can bring success as well as happiness.

To find what the stars have in store for tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 12

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)—Give children all the attention they need today. You can mix business and pleasure, too.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23)—Be energetic, for this is a day of accomplishment. If you work hard, be successful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Take care of your personal business affairs today. Protect all assets. A social evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Start a difficult project with anticipation of success. Efficiency pays dividends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Worry won't help a thing. Everything seems to go very slowly indeed. Just be patient.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 21)—A good day for taking care of your correspondence. The words seem to be at the end of your pen.

ARIES (Mar. 22-Apr. 20)—Get an early start and concentrate on a job that needs doing. You can finish it.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)—Rely on your own strength today to tackle a tough job. Help someone in distress if you can.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—A new environment may bring new friends—even romance, if that is what you are seeking.

CANCER (June 23-July 23)—Don't let impudence be a handicap. Arguments can be risky. Keep the peace now, if ever.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—News from a distance may bring the true facts. Don't pay too much attention to rumour.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Your own ideas are apt to be best. Follow them. Then pay attention to advice of others.

AIR-MINDED FLEAS

PERFORMING fleas, weather-bound at London Airport, need no longer wonder about a loose end. There is to be a large hostel for animals and insects who have to make journeys by air. Great care will have to be exercised to get them on the right planes. Even a trained acrobatic performer would find it difficult to pick out a warthog in a plane-load of financiers. The entry of a crocodile or a tiger would be more obvious, but no less awkward. Down, Rover, down!

(Answers on Page 8)

(London Express Service)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

(Solution on Page 8)

BY THE WAY

by Beachcomber

IF I have a favourite among the criminals of today, it is the thing called Unesco. In case it might be thought too highbrow, it called in Miss Myrna Loy, who "got more cheers than Italy's President."

If, by some glorious mischance, Mr. Bing Crosby had gone to Unesco, and Miss Loy to St. Andrews... But you see what I mean, even if I don't. What about making Miss Dorothy Lamour an honorary Field-Marshal and Assistant Director of Western Defence?

Is it valid?

MR. TINKLEBURY SNAP-DRIVER, K.C., sprang a surprise yesterday. He produced a document, convention, written instrument or what not, purporting to be a charter of privilege granted by three meane lords ecclesiastical in the reign of Henry II, to the borough in which the Thorogrip works are now situate (am habitation). This charter empowered any house-owner in the borough to fly a flag on every day of the year. Mr. Honeyweather Gooseboote, K.C., countered by quoting a written cancellation of this charter at the demand of the Knights Pursuivant of the Court of Selgneur, who claimed rights of custom by a writ of monstrevaunt presented in the Manorial court. Cocklecarrot interposed to say that if they were going to argue in this fashion, they might as well try to prove that people who make garters base their claim to advertise them on an ancient rune of the Druids unearthed at Plougastel. To Mr. Gooseboote's impatient "Why Plougastel?" the judge retorted hotly, "Why not?"

Perhaps she was bored

GIRLS who are in doubt about how to behave at a big dinner party might do better than follow the example of a lady I have been reading about in my paper. She "tied herself into a square knot" on the table, placed her forearm and upper body on the tablecloth, wrapped her legs round her neck, and slipped champagne from a glass held between her toes (the small one daintily crooked). "I can add nothing to the picture," I said, suspecting that the gentleman on either side of her found it difficult to pretend that they had not noticed anything odd going on. The crooked toe, at any rate, showed that she had been decently brought up, and was exquarily refined.

White, 11 pieces. White to play and mate in two.

Solution to yesterday's problem:

1, P-K4, any; 2, Q, R, or P (disch) mates.

INTELLIGENCE TEST

He came in last

By T. O. HARE

RABBIT invited me to the Inter-house Sports at the school where he was. Richard was running for one of the five houses. Mercury, unfortunately Richard, to his ill-conceived mortification, came in last.

Three runners represented each of the five houses. Setting was on the usual "points" basis, the first runner home being the winner. Richard and I went on for the first time on the same number of points. As the race started, Richard, Mercury, and I were not more than six inches apart in the race. Richard was known to me. Richard's cousin, Rump, was in the seventh; he was representing Mercury. Richard, running for Saturn, took place, and Freddie Fox, representing Can you deduce what places were occupied by the three runners?

Solution on Page 8

ALL RIGHTS RESERVED

Rupert determines he must keep Rump in sight, so he doesn't wait to speak to the ticket-collector. The little truant runs right up the platform, finds another way out, and, although rain has begun to fall, he makes straight for the town, where Rupert is pursuing. "It shall be able to catch her this time," he mutters. At that minute Rump decides to cross the road without looking to see if anyone is coming, and a taxi driver shouts as he has to jam on his brakes. She gets over, but Rupert has to stop sharply, and loses sight of her.

"The fireflies flew up with their tiny lights. One by one they lit the stars again. And no one ever knew that they had ever gone out. Oh, lots and lots of things happen at night—queer little things that don't bother anybody but the folks who stay awake when everyone else is fast asleep. Like the time when the brook started running the other way."

The Other Way

"What brook started running the other way, Chris?" said Hand in a surprised voice.

"The little brook that runs past the pine tree grove, then crosses the road under the stone bridge and goes off into the cow pasture and beyond the hills. It comes running, as you know, down from the mountains. Well, one night the frogs, who used to sit all night on the banks of the brook where the ground is wet and marshy, began calling out loudly—calling to everyone to come and see what was happening. I went—the owls and the mice and the cats all went. And when we reached the banks of the brook we saw that it had turned around. Instead of running past the pine tree grove and under the stone bridge and into the cow pasture and beyond the hills, it was running back into the mountains. Why it did that, we never found out. I don't think it wanted to run into the river and down to the ocean. It liked the mountains better. So there it was—going back! But it soon found out it couldn't climb into the mountains. It could come down but not go up. So it turned and ran off the right way again. But no one knew a thing about this—to one but us."

THE MOON STOOD IN THE BRANCHES

By MAX TRELL

places at night when everyone is asleep?

Lowered His Voice

Christopher Cricket lowered his voice, as though he wanted no one else to hear what he was about to say. "Last night, my dear the moon came down and got stuck in a tree!"

"Oh!" exclaimed Hand. "What happened then?" asked Knarf. "Did it get out again?"

"Luckily," said Christopher, "it happened to see it. There it was, all tangled up in the branches. It couldn't get up and it couldn't roll down. The moment I saw it I started calling for help. All the cats came. All the mice came. All the owls and the frogs came. We all ran to the tree and shook it. Finally the moon fell out and went rolling down the hill and out of sight. But no one else in the whole world knew anything about it."

"And then, on another night," Christopher Cricket went on, "the stars suddenly blinked themselves out."

"You mean," Knarf said, "that they blinked and blinked—and all at once they went out?"

Christopher nodded. "They all went out like little lamps. Now there wasn't a cloud in the sky. They just went out. Perhaps the wind blew them out. Yes, it must have been the wind. It was blowing quite hard that night. But," said Christopher smiling, "we lit them all up again."

"How?" Knarf and Hand wanted to know.

Christopher Cricket went on, "The stars suddenly blinked themselves out."

"You mean," Knarf said, "that they blinked and blinked—and all at once they went out?"

Christopher nodded. "They all went out like little lamps. Now there wasn't a cloud in the sky. They just went out. Perhaps the wind blew them out. Yes, it must have been the wind. It was blowing quite hard that night. But," said Christopher smiling, "we lit them all up again."

"How?" Knarf and Hand wanted to know.

Christopher Cricket went on, "The stars suddenly blinked themselves out."

"You mean," Knarf said, "that they blinked and blinked—and all at once they went out?"

Christopher nodded. "They all went out like little lamps. Now there wasn't a cloud in the sky. They just went out. Perhaps the wind blew them out. Yes, it must have been the wind. It was blowing quite hard that night. But," said Christopher smiling, "we lit them all up again."

"How?" Knarf and Hand wanted to know.

Christopher Cricket went on, "The stars suddenly blinked themselves out."

"You mean," Knarf said, "that they blinked and blinked—and all at once they went out?"

Christopher nodded. "They all went out like little lamps. Now there wasn't a cloud in the sky. They just went out. Perhaps the wind blew them out. Yes, it must have been the wind. It was blowing quite hard that night. But," said Christopher smiling, "we lit them all up again."

"How?" Knarf and Hand wanted to know.

Christopher Cricket went on, "The stars suddenly blinked themselves out."

"You mean," Knarf said, "that they blinked and blinked—and all at once they went out?"

Christopher nodded. "They all went out like little lamps. Now there wasn't a cloud in the sky. They just went out. Perhaps the wind blew them out. Yes, it must have been the wind. It was blowing quite hard that night. But," said Christopher smiling, "we lit them all up again."

"How?" Knarf and Hand wanted to know.

Christopher Cricket went on, "The stars suddenly blinked themselves out."

"You mean," Knarf said, "that they blinked and blinked—and all at once they went out?"

Christopher nodded. "They all went out like little lamps. Now there wasn't a cloud in the sky. They just went out. Perhaps the wind blew them out. Yes, it must have been the wind. It was blowing quite hard that night. But," said Christopher smiling, "we lit them all up again."

"How?" Knarf and Hand wanted to know.

Christopher Cricket went on, "The stars suddenly blinked themselves out."

"You mean," Knarf said, "that they blinked and blinked—and all at once they went out?"

Christopher nodded. "They all went out like little lamps. Now there wasn't a cloud in the sky. They just went out. Perhaps the wind blew them out. Yes, it must have been the wind. It was blowing quite hard that night. But," said Christopher smiling, "we lit them all up again."

"How?" Knarf and Hand wanted to know.

Christopher Cricket went on, "The stars suddenly blinked themselves out."

"You mean," Knarf said, "that they blinked and blinked—and all at once they went out?"

Christopher nodded. "They all went out like little lamps. Now there wasn't a cloud in the sky. They just went out. Perhaps the wind blew them out. Yes, it must have been the wind. It was blowing quite hard that night. But," said Christopher smiling, "we lit them all up again."

"How?" Knarf and Hand wanted to know.

Christopher Cricket went on, "The stars suddenly blinked themselves out."

"You mean," Knarf said, "that they blinked and blinked—and all at once they went out?"

Christopher nodded. "They all went out like little lamps. Now there wasn't a cloud in the sky. They just went out. Perhaps the wind blew them out. Yes, it must have been the wind. It was blowing quite hard that night. But," said Christopher smiling, "we lit them all up again."

"How?" Knarf and Hand wanted to know.

Christopher Cricket went on, "The stars suddenly blinked themselves out."

"You mean," Knarf said, "that they blinked and blinked—and all at once they went out?"

Christopher nodded. "They all went out like little lamps. Now there wasn't a cloud in the sky. They just went out. Perhaps the wind blew them out. Yes, it must have been the wind. It was blowing quite hard that night. But," said Christopher smiling, "we lit them all up again."

"How?" Knarf and Hand wanted to know.

Christopher Cricket went on, "The stars suddenly blinked themselves out."

"You mean," Knarf said, "that they blinked and blinked—and all at once they went out?"

Christopher nodded. "They all went out like little lamps. Now there wasn't a cloud in the sky. They just went out. Perhaps the wind blew them out. Yes, it must have been the wind. It was blowing quite hard that night. But," said Christopher smiling

To Bring Peace To Ex-Enemies

Tokyo, Oct. 10. A former Olympic star and World War II hero, who left Japan in 1945 with black hate in his heart against his captors, is back in this country to seek out his former enemies—and bring them spiritual peace and salvation.

One-time star miler Louis Zamperini flew into Tokyo on Sunday, carrying a bible and a list of 100 names of his captors and prison guards who had starved and tortured him during his two years in a Japanese prison camp.

The 33-year-old former pilot from Compton, California, arrived here as a member of the Youth for Christ Group. He is the second ex-prisoner to come to Japan since the war as a missionary (the first was former Sergeant Jacob Doolittle's bombing group) and a second former mile athlete (the first being "Flying Preacher" Gil Dadds).

Zamperini said today he was converted during his Los Angeles last year. His wife, a devout Christian, had persuaded him to attend.

DUTY TO PERFORM
After his experience Zamperini told friends: "There is such a change in my life that I feel I have a duty to perform. That duty is to return to Japan with the power of Jesus Christ. I shall offer to them the word of God. For now I believe it is Christ or Communism for nations. Christ or atomic annihilation for the world. Our only remedy for these threats is Christ for the individual."

Zamperini was captured in 1943 when he ditched his plane off Oahu, Hawaii, and drifted 2,000 miles in 47 days on a life raft. A Japanese vessel picked up the pilot and his companions. He spent the rest of the war in a Japanese prison camp.

During his confinement the Japanese made him run against the best miler in Japan. Weak and undernourished, Zamperini won.

In the former track star's possession is his own death certificate signed by the late President Roosevelt—United Press.

Paris Cheers Sultan Of Morocco

Paris, Oct. 10. The President of the French Republic, M. Vincent Auriol, the Prime Minister, M. Rene Pleven, and members of the Government today welcomed the Sultan of Morocco, Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, and his son when they arrived at the Bois de Boulogne station here for a four-day State visit.

Cheered by crowds and surrounded by mounted Republican Guards in full ceremonial uniform, the party moved slowly in three cars towards the Elisee Palace.

Fifteen closed cars with high civilian and military officials joined the motor cavalcade, which was led by the President's car with the Sultan in white robes and the Heir Apparent in a dark suit with fez. Thousands of troops, including mounted Spahis—North African cavalry—in full dress uniform, lined the Avenue Foch and the Champs Elysees, through which the party drove to the Palace, where the Sultan will be the President's guest.

A monster traffic jam still held up circulation an hour after the Sultan's arrival. The Sultan will place a wreath tomorrow at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in the morning. In the evening he will hold discussions with the President and M. Robert Schuman, the Foreign Minister.—Reuter.

Danes Express Gratitude To Churchill

Copenhagen, Oct. 10. Mr Winston Churchill, who with Mrs Churchill is visiting Denmark, was this afternoon given the honorary degree of Doctor of Philosophy of Copenhagen University. The ceremony was attended by over 500 professors, diplomats, journalists and other guests.

Expanding U.S. Forces In Europe

Los Angeles, Oct. 10. Assistant Secretary of the Army Karl Bendetsen said today the Army will use the new military appropriations to strengthen United States forces in Europe.

Mr Bendetsen, here to participate in the American Legion national convention, said the Korean war had not reduced the need for strong European defenses.

He said: "The ball will begin rolling now that the Armed Forces have the money to guard this American rampart. Our forces throughout Europe will receive enough armor and men to convince Russia that we mean business."

The Army Comptroller, Lt. Gen. McLean, who accompanied Mr Bendetsen here, said the Army has 40 percent more money to work with than it had before the Korean invasion. He said: "Our forces in Western Germany will be greatly strengthened now that appropriations have been upped."

The General described General MacArthur's amphibious landing at Inchon in Korea as "one of the most brilliant campaigns in history, both tactically and politically. It will go down in history as one of the greatest moves in modern warfare."

United Press.

GREATNESS OF GANDHI

Birmingham, Oct. 10. Dr Ernest Barnes, Bishop of Birmingham, said today that Mahatma Gandhi was without doubt the greatest religious leader in India during the present century.

"In him the influence of Christ was far more manifest than in many nominal Christians, for like Christ, he was a peace-maker," he declared at a religious service here.

Dr Barnes said that the great industrial cities of the world were apprehensive lest in a new war the use of atomic bombs should bring unparalleled misery.

"May it not be that some of the peoples of the world, inspired by leaders like Gandhi and Sun Yat-sen, will move towards the repudiation of an evil which, so far, we in England dare not set aside?" he asked.—Reuter.

Toscanini In New York

New York, Oct. 10. Arturo Toscanini, the famous Italian conductor, arrived here today in the liner Vulcania. He was allowed to land immediately despite report that he might be barred under the new internal security law, which bars entry to America to all past members of the Nazi Party and associated organizations, as well as a number of present-day pro-Communist organizations abroad.—Reuter.

1802.

"Quick! Who gets what?"

Inspection At Holyrood

Wants Place For Dutch Navy In Atlantic System

The Hague, Oct. 10. Rear-Admiral H. C. W. Moorman, Dutch Secretary of the Navy, declared today that his Government should maintain its attitude that the Dutch fleet must continue to be represented in the Atlantic defence system.

LARGE-SCALE N.W. ITALY FARM STRIKE

Turin, Oct. 10. Steel-helmeted police, carrying Tommy-guns, today were guarding all trains in Italy's northwestern Turin Province, while big industry was largely paralysed by a 14-hour Communist-led strike which was called in support of labourers in the Province's rice fields who quit work two weeks ago, demanding a new labour contract.

Strong reinforcements of police were deployed throughout the Province to prevent the striking farm workers from large-scale arson and other direct action.

At one farm, near Novara, 600 quatrals of fodder and 220 square metres of barn roofing were destroyed by a fire early this morning.

Yesterday, 6,000,000 lire worth of damage was done to another farm by a similar fire. The police reported that in many regions strikers today beat up labourers brought in from other provinces in an effort to save the ripened crop. Many arrests were reported.—Reuter.

JAP PRINCE GIVES BLOOD

Tokyo, Oct. 10. Some soldier wounded in Korea may soon be carrying the blue blood of the Japanese Imperial family in his veins without knowing it.

Prince Takamatsu, second brother of Emperor Hirohito, today donated 200 grams of "A" type blood to the United Nations blood bank, and then emptied a glass of apple juice offered by U.S. Army medical attendants in one hearty gulp.

Princess him, was refused a physical check-up showed she was not sufficiently strong to stand the loss of blood.

The staff at the army dispensary where blood donations are being accepted said that 30 to 40 Japanese have been appearing daily, with a total of about 400 Japanese blood donations up to today.—United Press.

CEASE-FIRE REJECTED

Djakarta, Oct. 10. The Indonesian Government has rejected an appeal by the United Nations Commission for Indonesia for a cease-fire in Ambon, the Commission announced tonight.

The announcement said that the Indonesian Foreign Minister, Dr Mohammad Roem, had replied saying that his Government regretted that it was unable to comply with the Commission's appeal to further explore the means of a peaceful settlement.

Russians Object To Extension Of Trygve Lie's Term

Lake Success, Oct. 10. Soviet Russia today objected at a secret session of the Security Council to the extension of Mr Trygve Lie's term of office as Secretary-General of the United Nations.

It was learned that the objection of the Soviet delegate, Mr Jacob Malik, was not so much directed at Mr Lie personally as at the principle of extensions to the five-year term.

Dr Ales Belser, the Yugoslav delegate, proposed that Mr Lie's term be extended by two or three years.

The Council was discussing the formalities of the appointment, and no other names were mentioned.

It was understood that the Western delegates would propose that the Council make no recommendation whatever leaving the decision to the General Assembly, where there is no veto.

Mr Lie's five-year term as Secretary-General expires in February.

The Chinese Nationalist delegate, Dr T. T. Tsiang, while not opposing Mr Lie directly, suggested that consideration be given to the possible candidature of former Presidents of the Assembly.

It was understood that he had General Carlos Romulo, the Philippine Foreign Minister, in mind.—Reuter.

NO ONE ELSE
Washington, Oct. 10. The Washington Post declared today that the continuance of Mr Trygve Lie as the United Nations Secretary-General was of "very great importance to the effective functioning of the United Nations."

Mr Lie's period of office expires in February. It was almost impossible to think of anyone who could succeed him, the newspaper said.

"Between the Scylla of Soviet ambition and the Charybdis of Western resistance he steered the fledgling United Nations with remarkable dexterity. He has sought rapprochement between the East and West—an essential function of his office,"—Reuter.

Intruder In Austria Denounced

Washington, Oct. 10. Dr Karl Gruber, the Austrian Foreign Minister, said today that his country might eventually have to appeal to the United Nations for "real liberation."

Soviet diplomacy had delayed an Austrian peace treaty "with an accumulation of claims which have not the slightest connection," he declared.

The Foreign Minister told a National Press Club luncheon: "It may even be conceivable that diplomatic means will fail. In that case, we shall have to appeal to the United Nations to help us get rid of the intruder."

"We are convinced that sooner or later the United Nations not only will have the will, but also the power, to restore freedom, peace and order to a country which does belong to the most ardent adherents of the ideal of the United Nations."

"A few days ago we had a severe test of our inner stability," Dr Gruber said. "The Austrian Communist Party tried to use the present economic difficulty to stage a general strike and, following this up, to cause an uprising against Austria's free and democratic institutions."

"This attempt failed completely, even though the Communists got some indirect assistance from the Soviet authorities in Eastern Austria."

"This certainly gave ample evidence of the unity of our population and the people's determination to defend free institutions against Communist aggression,"—Reuter.

DEFENCE TALKS IN LISBON
Lisbon, Oct. 10. The South African Defence Minister, Mr Francois Christian Erasmus, arrived here today on a three-day visit, during which it is believed that he will discuss Union defence problems with members of the Portuguese Government.

Mr Erasmus is accompanied by General de Wet du Toit, the South African Army Chief of Staff, and Brigadier H.H. Klopper, the Commander of the Union's land forces.

All three are on their way home from New York after visiting Europe and the United States for defence talks.

Observers thought that the South African Defence Minister would discuss South African defence problems with the Portuguese officials.

He said he was "most pleased" with the results of his talks with the Defence and Colonial Ministers of France, the United States and Britain.

He had told them that any Communist attack in the African continent would be considered an attack on South Africa herself and South Africa would fight with all the means at her disposal.—Reuter.

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE BRIGADE

KOWLOON SUB-DISTRICT TO: KOWLOON RESIDENTS WANTED

Books, Periodicals & Magazines for distribution to Service Camps in the New Territories

Please communicate with: R. A. EDWARDS, c/o Kowloon Hospital WE WILL ARRANGE TO COLLECT

Note: If Donors wish to hand books in personally they can do so at the following places: 1. Despatch Office, Kowloon Railway Station. 2. Kowloon Tong Club. 3. Kowloon Hospital, General Office.

PRESS PHOTOGRAPHS

Copies of photographs taken by the South China Morning Post and Hong Kong Telegraph Staff Photographers are on view in the Morning Post Building.

ORDERS BOOKED

The Hongkong Telegraph

Morning Post Building, Hongkong.
Published daily (afternoons). Price: 20 cents per edition. Subscription: $2.50 per month. Postage: China and Macao, $1.50 per month. UK British Possessions and other countries, $4.50 per month.
News contributions, always welcome, should be addressed to the Editor, business communications and advertisements to the Secretary.
Telephone: 26011 (5 Lines).

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

20 WORDS $3.00 FOR 1 DAY PREPAID. ADDITIONAL INSERTIONS $1.00 PER DAY. 10 cents PER WORD OVER 20

Births, Deaths, Marriages, Personal, $5.00 per insertion not exceeding 25 words, 25 cents each additional word.

ALTERNATE INSERTIONS 10% EXTRA
IF NOT PREPAID A BOOKING FEE OF 50 CENTS IS CHARGED.

Names and addresses should accompany Advertisements, not necessarily for publication, but to ensure that replies are received by the person for whom they are intended.

We will forward replies to the stated address if the advertiser desires.

All advertisers purporting to loan money must publish their names and addresses in the advertisement.

If the wants of advertisers are quickly met and they do not desire any further replies forwarded, we shall be glad to be notified promptly to that effect when a suitable acknowledgment will be inserted free of charge.

WANTED KNOWN

EXPERT PACKER: For chinaware, glassware, etc. Wooden crates and strapping supplied. Please write Yiu Kee, 112, 114, Road, 1st floor. Tel. 2201, 2-5 p.m.

FOR SALE

YE OLDE MILL. A distinctive hand lettered, in boxes, 50 sheets newspaper, 50 envelopes. Post by air, $2.50. Post by air, $1.50. Unmounted, $4.00. Obtainable from "S. C. M. Post."

CHINA'S Ancient Script. An attractive stationery of distinction, in boxes of forty sheets and envelopes, 40 sheets and forty envelopes, $4 per box. On sale, "South China Morning Post."

NEW EDITION. THE "POST" Typo Map incorporating amendments to the Local and Non-Local Home Signs. Colours, mounted, $3.00. Unmounted, $4.00. Obtainable from "S. C. M. Post."

WEIGHTS AND MEASUREMENTS of Cargo exported from Hongkong to South China, compiled by the Sworn Measures, 115 from, the "South China Morning Post."

AIRMAIL Writing Pads, 12, Scribbled Pads, three assorted, 50 cents. On sale, "S. C. M. Post."

WILL FORMS. Power of Attorney, Agency, Agreement, Forms on sale at "S. C. M. Post."

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

MAY BE BOOKED AT THE EVERGREEN STORE CORNER OF NATHAN AND JORDAN ROADS, KOWLOON.

COLUMBIA COPPERPLATE Drawing Pencils, Yellow, Ivory, Brown, 20 per dozen, 20 cents each. Obtainable at "S. C. M. Post."

ON SALE: "Vegetable Cultivation in Hongkong" by Dr C. C. A. C. Price $12. Obtainable at "S. C. M. Post."

COLUMBIA COPPERPLATE Copying Pencils, Yellow, Ivory, Brown, 20 per dozen, 20 cents each. Obtainable at "S. C. M. Post."

F. O. R. D. BRITISH BLOTTING PAPER, 20 per dozen, 20 cents each. On sale, $18.00 per 100, "S. C. M. Post."

THE COMPANIES ORDINANCE 1921. Reprint. Form 100 on sale at "S. C. M. Post, Ltd."

OFFICE STATIONERY. Letter Heads, Memorandum Forms, Visiting Cards, Envelopes, etc. Orders call "S. C. M. Post."

St. John Ambulance Brigade

FREE AMBULANCE SERVICE

Tel. Hongkong 26093 Kowloon 50000

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS

Advertisers are requested to note that not less than 24 hours notice prior to the day of publication should be given for all commercial display advertisements, change of copy etc.

Notices and classified advertisements will be received up to 10 a.m. and urgent notices until 11 a.m. on day of issue. Saturdays not later than 9.30 a.m.

Printed and published by WILLIAM ALICE GRIMMAGE for and on behalf of South China Morning Post Limited at 1-3 Wyndham Street, City of Victoria, in the Colony of Hongkong.